COLLECTOR SMARSH RESIGNS

V. J. Smarsh, deputy revenue collector stationed in Gettysburg for more than three years, has resigned his position taking effect yesterday. Announcement of the acceptance of Mr. Smarsh's resignation just at this time when income tax returns are being made came as a surprise here. When the new collector of internal revenue, Blakely D. McCaughn, took his office several months ago, Mr. Smarsh sent in his resignation to be accepted "at the will and discretion" of the collector. No successor to Mr. Smarsh has been named so far as is known here and the office of the collector in the Gettysburg postoffice building has been closed. For the present Mr. Smarsh will assist in making out income tax returns as a private adviser. After the income tax period Mr. Smarsh will give his entire time to selling life insurance.

Those perfect in attendance during the month of February at Clear View school, Oxford township, were: Ethel Alwine, Ruth Eckert, Elizabeth and Effie Garrett, Ivy Myers, Alma and Viola Sheely, Margaret Wolf, Ethel Shellenberger, Arthur and Philip Alwine, Alvin and Mervin Becker, Lloyd Eckert, Frank Eicholtz, George Garrett, Raymond Geisler, Rufus Haverstick, Raymond Herman, Ralph Kling, James Myers, John Spangler, Charles Wolf, and Arthur Yeagy. Olive E. Orner, teacher.

An Atlantic oil truck became imbedded so deeply in a gutter near the residence of Frank Eicholtz, east of town, one day recently, that another truck had to be called from Gettysburg to render first aid.

The report that J. P. Hoffman, Prudential Ins. agent, had bought the residence of T. E. Warner on Lincoln Way, East, occupied by Jos. Sheely, is denied.

The Immaculate Conception church choir will have its first rehearsal in Parochial hall Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Harry Miller, Carlisle street, entertained the members of the sewing circle Monday evening.

BLAST TEARS OUT EYE

S. E. TRIMMER DROPT DEAD

Monday afternoon Samuel E. Trimmer, a prominent business man of Gettysburg, dropped dead in his place of business, due to an attack of heart trouble which came over him suddenly as he was engaged in conversation with a traveling salesman and his son-in-law. Apparently Mr. Trimmer had been in his usual health and at the time that he was taken ill, had been talking about his favorite forms of recreation, hunting and fishing. Mr. Trimmer had never complained about his heart. He was 55 years, 4 months and 3 days old. Mr. Trimmer was the son of the late Jacob and Elizabeth Trimmer and was born near 700. He lived in this vicinity until 1910 when he moved to Gettysburg. While living in New Oxford, Mr. Trimmer was engaged in the buying and selling of antiques but upon moving to Gettysburg, he opened up the five and ten cent store and was the pioneer in that business in Adams county. Clyde Daly, son-in-law of Mr. Trimmer, has been manager of the store since 1917. About 35 years ago Mr. Trimmer married Elizabeth Gochenour, of York Springs, who preceded him in death two years ago last September. Mr. Trimmer leaves three daughters, Mrs. Clyde Daly, Mrs. Harry Hance and Miss Evelyn Trimmer, Gettysburg. Miss Trimmer has been attending Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore. Five brothers also survive: Jacob and Jonas, of Carlisle; Willis, of Shippensburg; Noah, of Lititz; and Charles, of Sacramento, Calif.

RIGHT SHINBONE IN WRONG HOUSE

His mind evidently intent on a pair of pretty eyes and a head of attractive hair, as only a Mt. Rock girl could have, Alphonsus Noel, West End butcher, is said to have sold a shin bone to a Mt. Misery customer, one day recently, with instructions to deliver said meat at said customer's home, and then to have deposited the unsuspecting shin bone on the back porch of an altogether different Mt. Misery residence. That business and staying up late at nights at Mt. Rock don't mix well is the advice Mt. Misery residents have given the local butcher.

The concert in Miller's hall on Saturday evening by the P. O. S. of A. band of Hanover, was according to predictions a grand success, the hall being crowded to capacity. The concert was of the first-class order. This band, which is under the direction of Prof. Eberle, of York, is one of the best musical organizations in southern Pennsylvania. The violin music rendered by Miss Mary Hamm, a 12-year-old school girl, of Hanover, was worthy of particular mention, receiving as a testimonial to her musical talent a hat collection amounting to $9.50.

Among the Hanover Senior class who hold the highest averages are Ruth Haar, George Nagle, Helen Sheely, Catherine Wehler and Ethel Snyder, of this vicinity. Earl Hershey, Hanover, has been named valedictorian, and Miss Eleanor Van Hise will deliver the salutatorian address at the Commencement exercises. All of the above students from this section will also speak at the Commencement exercises which will be held June 3.

PRISONER ESCAPED FROM SHERIFF IN DECEMBER: SHERIFF'S OFFICE SILENT

Edwin Hall, 20 years old, Binghamton, N. Y., sentenced for the theft of an automobile December 5 by Judge McPherson to serve not less than a year or more than 15 months in the Eastern Penitentiary, escaped from the Adams county jail some time between December 5 and December 19, according to information from authentic sources, says the Times.

No public announcement of the escape of Howell has been made by the authorities at the jail and an informal investigation that has been conducted has failed to reveal definitely the exact time of the jail delivery. Deputy Sheriff Howard Hartman when asked about the escape of Howell preferred to say nothing about it. There is slight hope that the prisoner may be apprehended.

The report of the sheriff made last week to the county auditors showed that board was charged for Howell up to December 19, according to the auditors. Unofficial investigations made by other county officers indicate, however, the escape took place either December 11 or 12. Delay in taking the prisoner to the penitentiary was excused, it is said, by illness of Sheriff Hartman.

Howell is supposed to have escaped in the early evening and in the absence of a statement of fact from the sheriff's office rumors are now current as to how the delivery was effected. It is known, however, that no violence was used by Howell in getting away.

Howell was arrested November 6, 1921, after an exciting chase to the outskirts of Littlestown where he abandoned the car he had stolen in Gettysburg and ran for a corn field. During the chase live shots were fired at the car by the owner, Harry Snyder, and his father Willis Snyder, as it passed through Two Taverns. He pleaded guilty. The report of doctors at the time disclosed that his physical condition was not seriously impaired, as was claimed.

The question naturally arises: What have been conditions at the county jail to permit a penitentiary sentenced criminal to make a clean get away? One rumor has it that Howell was connected with a ring of bootleggers and was met by friends after he left the jail. What will be done about the matter?

FORMER RESIDENT WRITES

The Item last week received a letter from Christian B. Biggle, now located at Waterloo, Iowa, in which he states that owing to an accident in which he had both his legs broken, he has been confined to his home since last September. Mr. Biggle was born and reared in the home now occupied by Geo. D. Sheely and family, south-east of New Oxford, but when a boy of 16 years of age, in 1872, with his parents, one brother, Herman Biggle, and one sister, Amelia, he moved to Iowa, where the family has resided most of these years, and little or no tidings have been received here of them in the past 50 years. The father died in 1884 at the age of 83, and the mother in 1912 at the age of 97. Herman is now located in Tacoma, Wash., and Amelia at Spokane, Wash. Mr. Biggle speaks of the Sheely boys and girls, Feisers, Emmerts, and others as former schoolmates, and would be very much gratified to hear from any of his former comrades yet living.

KUMP HELD WITHOUT BAIL

Child-like innocence and pathos mingled at the preliminary hearing Tuesday afternoon in the Adams county jail when Stella May Kump, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Kump, Hamiltonban township, took the stand as witness against Oliver Kump, aged 20, the man who signed a statement confessing to a criminal assault on the little girl after his arrest last Tuesday. Kump was held without bail to await the action of the grand jury in April, at the conclusion of the hearing. A mere wisp of a girl, she wrung her hands nervously as she nodded or shook her head in answer to questions. At times the mother wept. The little girl identified Oliver Kump several times.

With both his clerks "under the weather" on Thursday, J. F. Sanders, Center Square grocer, was prevented from moving to his new residence on North Peters street, that day. Mr. Sanders had fully intended to move and the Item's mistake in announcing the "fitting" was caused by force of circumstances. Mr. Sanders is now undecided as to when he can occupy his new residence.

"Dangerous Curve Ahead," said to be a highly entertaining movie, will be shown in the Crystal theatre, this place on Friday and Saturday evenings, March 24th and 25th, for the benefit of Theo. Pfeiffer Camp 60 S. of V. The community is urged to lend the Sons due support and at the same time get a good picture for their money.

OCTOGENARIANS LIVE 60 YEARS IN HOUSE

Courtesy Gazette and Daily

MR. AND MRS. J. FRANK HOUCK
The above pair, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Houck, Heidlersburg, have lived continuously in the vicinity of their birth for four-score years, and all of their married life, or nearly 60 years, in the same homestead. Recently a family reunion was celebrated in the home which brought their eight children, and their children and grandchildren, home, to the number of 24. In spite of their age, Mr. Houck being 86 years, and his wife over 81 years, both enjoy fairly good health, excepting Mr. Houck's vision, which is seriously impaired. Mr. Houck acted as postmaster, justice of the peace and school teacher, in the little town where he has spent his days. By reason of his successful life, his advice is often sought by residents of that section in financial affairs. He is well and favorably known in other parts of the county in which he resides.

MARY GROVE GOCHENOUR

Mrs. Mary Gochenour died rather suddenly at the home of her brother John Grove, Independence, Mo., at 7 a. m. on Wednesday, aged 73 years. Mrs. Gochenour was on her way from a visit to friends at Mt. Clair, N. J., to her home at San Diego, Calif., and was spending some time at the home of her brother, John, where she was taken sick with pneumonia on Saturday and died at the time stated. The deceased was a daughter of the late Francis and Lavina Grove, of Abbotstown, and widow of the late Dr. David Gochenour, the latter for many years practicing his profession at Abbotstown, prior to locating in San Diego. The husband died about 15 years ago, and his body was disposed of by cremation, as was also the request of Mrs. Gochenour, that her body be cremated. The deceased is survived by two brothers, John Grove, residing at Independence, Mo., and William Grove, of Los Angeles, Calif., and one sister, Mrs. Susan Henry, of Mt. Clair, N. J. Mrs. Mary Feiser Grove, of Berlin avenue, is a sister-in-law of the deceased.

ACQUIRE LINCOLN MILL

A. C. Harvey & Co., of Philadelphia, have leased the Lincoln Flour Mill, Hanover street, from the D. W. Dietrick Co., of Philadelphia, along with the Buffalo Mill at Lewisburg. Luther H. Pottruff, of Pleasant street, has been made manager of the local mill. A quantity of Kansas wheat has been assigned to this place and the Lincoln-Buffer Flour Mill, Inc., as the new company is known, expect to have the mill running steadily for sometime. A fair share of the local patronage is solicited.

PINES PASTOR RESIGNS

The Rev. L. G. Stauffer, pastor of the Pines Lutheran church for the past four years, has resigned to take effect on March 15th. The Rev. Stauffer will occupy one of his houses in York. He will have public sale of personal property on March 11th at his home at New Chester. The Charge will be served temporarily by a supply minister. For the present Rev. Stauffer will devote his time to business. He may take another charge later.

Well filled houses each night thoroughly enjoyed "The Old Nest" which was shown in the Crystal theatre on Friday and Saturday evenings. Words of praise were heard on all sides, and Mr. Felty, the manager, is so pleased with the support accorded that he will endeavor to bring other feature pictures here from time to time.

Youngsters are said to have thrown over one of the small urns in Center Square on Monday, causing some damage. An effort will be made to collect, it is reported. Prompt action in early spring in looking after the town's beautiful square will mean much trouble saved when summer arrives.

New Oxford Reformed charge, Rev. Jno. W. Keener, pastor—St. Paul's, 9 a. m. Sunday School, 6 p. m. Christian Endeavor, 7 p. m. Evening service; Emmanuel's, 9 a. m. Sunday School, 10 a. m. Morning service. Catechetical class Saturday at 1 p. m. in St. Paul's Reformed church.

A FRIEND IN NEED A FRIEND INDEED

Writes Mrs. Hardee Regarding
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Los Angeles, Calif.—"I must tell you that I am a true friend to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken it off and on for twenty years and it has helped me change from a delicate girl to a stout, healthy woman. When I was married I was sick all the time until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in bed much of my time with pains and had to have the doctor every month. One day I found a little book in my yard in Guthrie, Oklahoma, and I read it through and got the medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and took eight bottles and used the Sanative Wash. I at once began to get stronger. I have got many women to take it just by telling them what it has done for me. I have a young sister whom it has helped in the same way it helped me. I want you to know that I am a 'friend indeed,' for you are a 'friend in need.'"

—Mrs. GEORGE HARDEE, 1043 Byram St., Los Angeles, California

"Isn't it queer that Methuselah lived to be 969 years old, and many other men lived to be very aged in Bible times, without a woman living to be that old?"

"It isn't a bit queer. It merely shows that women were the same then as now. What woman would ever confess to being a thousand years old?"

Have Backache?

If you're Nervous, Run-down, Tired, these are Symptoms which Need Not Be. Read what Mrs. Franz says:

Baltimore, Md.—"I was bloated nearly all the time, had backache, and was nervous, run-down, tired and had no energy, but after I took one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I was feeling grand. Had a good appetite and didn't feel the least bit bloated. I also gained weight; I now weigh 175 pounds." Mrs. John P. Franz, 1308 Kuper St.
If you have the above-mentioned symptoms you should profit by Mrs. Franz's advice and get the Prescription from your druggist at once—in tablets and liquid.

HANGS SELF TO ESCAPE TAUNTS

16-Year-Old Boy, Paralyzed
From Babyhood, Hears
Last Gibe.

LONGED FOR SPORTS

William Simkowitz Hangs Himself in Bathroom With Rope Fastened to Water Pipe—Mates Were
Cruel to Him.

New York.—William Simkowitz, the sixteen-year-old son of John Simkowitz of 81 Washington place, Passaic, N. J., hanged himself in the bathroom of his home because he could no longer endure the taunts and gibes of his playmates. He was a cripple and they had been cruel to him, laughing at him when he could not run and play with them, and they made fun of him because he was not able to go coasting and try out their new sleds. So he couldn't stand it any longer.

Young Simkowitz had been a cripple since he was a baby, when he suffered an attack of infantile paralysis that affected almost his whole right side, but particularly his right leg and foot. The disease left him with a limp which he could not hide, although all his life he had been trying to walk without it. But he couldn't. He couldn't be like the other boys; if they played baseball he had to keep score for them, or he had to watch them; if they played football he even had to keep away back from the sidelines, because he could not get out of their way.

Mimicked by Schoolboys.

He felt his affliction terribly. It hurt him all his life, this knowledge that he could not play and that he had to walk with a limp. It might not have been so bad if the other boys and girls had sympathized with him and helped him, but they didn't. They laughed at him and made fun of him. The boys at school mimicked him and paraded before him with an exaggerated limp, and the girls wouldn't go anywhere with him because he was a cripple, so when his schoolmates had a party or anything of that sort he either went alone or he did not go at all, because he knew that if he went he would be alone all evening or all afternoon. No one would play with him because he could not play; no one would even talk to him.

One afternoon his brothers and sisters went off to play games, crowds of other boys passed with their skates and sleds on their way to skate and coast.

Hears Last Taunts.

They didn't stop to ask him to go; even his own brothers did not ask him.

He had nothing to do but to read, and he had read so much that he hated the sight of a book. He wandered about the house, and in the kitchen he found a half-inch rope. He took this rope and went into the bathroom and, climbing on a chair, he tied an end of the rope about a water pipe and in the other end he fashioned a noose. Then he put the noose about his neck and kicked the chair from beneath him. An hour later his brother John came in and found him, but William was dead.

THIEF USES DOPED CIGARETTE

Makes Officer Unconscious and Steals Fingerprints From Robbery
in Oklahoma.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—A doped cigarette was used to make an officer unconscious and permit a man to steal fingerprints that had been taken in connection with the robbing of a train. Physicians worked three hours to revive the officer.

"After lighting the cigarette he offered me, I talked a few minutes to the man," said the policeman. "I last remember seeing the stranger reaching for the prints and hearing him say, 'Well, I got you that time.'"

Sentenced for Cruelty to Hogs.

TO PUT OUT FIRE LET BAND PLAY

Oklahoma Scientist Advises Calling Symphony Orchestra Instead of Fire Department.

Kansas City, Mo.—When there is a big fire, find out the flame tone and call a symphony orchestra instead of the fire department.

Prof. Hilton I. Jones, chemistry head of the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college, demonstrated vibrations before the City club here. He let the audience hear a flame "sing" and then put it out by sound.

"Extinguishing a fire by sound is easy when the burning substance is known and when there is only one element, such as hydrogen," he said. "The flame is extinguished when its neutral-

Tattoo of "Mutt and Jeff" on Leg Betrayed Him as Impersonator, Biga-mist, and Forger.

Philadelphia.—Having numerous wives, passing worthless checks, impersonating a naval officer, desertion from the navy, and obtaining money under false pretenses are a few of the charges against "Lieut. Harry Eades," alias Harry Moore Miller, alias Fred G. Hickman, arrested here a few days ago.

Pictures of "Mutt and Jeff" tattooed on the man's right leg led to his undoing. The Philadelphia authorities arrested him on the charge of impersonating an officer. He was in custody four days before it was learned he was the man Department of Justice agents all over the country were seeking. Eades was married in Norfolk, Va., December 4, where he posed as an heir to a large fortune. A few days later he deserted his bride in Baltimore, Md.

In Baltimore, Eades is accused of passing worthless checks and marrying another girl. He is accused of posing as a naval officer in Indianapolis and of marrying a girl in that city, and it is said he has other wives strewn along the path from Texas to Norfolk. He killed a man in Texas, according to a story told by his Norfolk wife. He is also charged with being a deserter from the navy, where he was an enlisted man.

Thug's Act Is Stopped by Engine Headlight

Uniontown, Pa.—The glaring headlight of an engine on the Pennsylvania railroad here thwarted an unidentified man, who, after throwing a rope around the neck of Mrs. Elizabeth Chambers, twenty-five, dragged her into a swamp. Mrs. Chambers had gone to the place to meet her husband.

Mrs. Chambers said she arrived first and was awaiting her husband, when a rope was thrown about her neck and drawn taut, and she was dragged toward the swamp.

Just before she lapsed into unconsciousness, Mrs. Chambers said, she saw the glaring headlight of an engine which had just rounded a curve. This evidently caused her assailant to flee, for she next remembers lying in the swamp with the rope still about her neck.

Woman, Hit by Train, Regains Mind

Topeka, Kan.—The shock of a train accident slowly is bringing back the reason of Mrs. Loretta Moore. She was sent to an asylum six months ago after murdering her daughter. She lost a hand and an eye when she was hit by the train, after she had escaped from the institution, but her sanity is returning, say physicians.

WESTERN CANADA Land of Prosperity

offers to home seekers opportunities that cannot be secured elsewhere. The thousands of farmers from the United States who have accepted Canada's generous offer to settle on FREE homesteads or buy farm land in her provinces have been well repaid by bountiful crops. There is still available on easy terms

Fertile Land at $15 to $30 an Acre—land similar to that which through many years has yielded from 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre—oats, barley and flax also in great abundance, while raising horses, cattle, sheep and hogs is equally profitable. Hundreds of farmers in western Canada have raised crops in a single season worth more than the whole cost of their land. With such success comes prosperity, independence, good homes and all the comforts and conveniences which make life worth living.

Farm Gardens, Poultry, Dairying are sources of income second only to grain growing and stock raising. Attractive climate, good neighbors, churches, schools, good markets, railroad facilities, rural telephone, etc.

A Feeling of Security

You naturally feel secure when you know that the medicine you are about to take is absolutely pure and contains no harmful or habit producing drugs.

Such a medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, kidney, liver and bladder remedy. The same standard of purity, strength and excellence is maintained in every bottle of Swamp-Root.

It is scientifically compounded from vegetable herbs.

It is not a stimulant and is taken in teaspoonful doses.

It is not recommended for everything. It is nature's great helper in relieving and overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

A sworn statement of purity is with every bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

If you need a medicine, you should have the best. On sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish to try this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

MOTHER! OPEN

CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Your little one will love the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" even if constipated, bilious, irritable, feverish, or full of cold. A teaspoonful never fails to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the sour bile, and undigested food out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

FOOLISH ADVICE

"Sorry, sir," telephoned the butcher, "but we are out of sirloin. Why don't your wife order you a round?"

"What's that?" exploded Barker, at the other end of the line.

"Why don't your wife order you a round?"

"Why don't my wife order me around? Man, that is all she does from morning until night! If you were nearer I'd—" But the startled butcher had hung up the receiver.

Even If—

The loving husband was about to start on a long journey. His young wife, a very modern type, stood disconsolately on the platform. The whistle blew. He gave her a last kiss. "I'll write to you," he said, "from every place we stop at on the way."

"Yes, do," she said, "do, darling, even if it's only a check."

THIN FRAIL PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE TANLAC

Hundreds of Men and Women All Over America Appear To Be Physical Wrecks Simply Because Their Systems Are Starving for Nourishment.

There are hundreds of thin, run-down, nervous men and women all over the United States who should be strong, sturdy and vigorous, with rich, red blood tingling through their veins and feeling brimful of life and energy, if they would only profit by the experience of others all over the United States and Canada, and assist nature to digest the food they eat, by simply taking Tanlac.

Millions of people have not only been relieved of the most obstinate forms of dyspepsia and indigestion by Tanlac, but large numbers of them have reported a remarkable and rapid increase in weight and a return to normal health and strength by its use.

In fact, so phenomenal have been the gains in weight by thin, frail people through the use of Tanlac that this remarkable preparation is now being proclaimed everywhere as the World's Greatest Tonic.

The food people eat does them absolutely no good unless they digest it properly. When you suffer from indigestion and other forms of stomach trouble, the food does you harm instead of good, because food which is not digested stays in the stomach and ferments, causing pain, swelling, gas on stomach, shortness of breath, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness and many other disagreeable symptoms. If this condition is permitted to run on for an indefinite period the entire system becomes saturated with poisons, the patient becomes thin and pale and in time various complications are apt to result.

Tanlac is a powerful reconstructive tonic and quickly overcomes this condition by aiding nature to eliminate the impurities from the system in a natural way and enable the vital organs to properly perform their functions. That is why it is called Nature's Medicine.

In fact, there is not a single portion of the body that is not benefited by the helpful action of Tanlac, which begins its work by stimulating the digestive and assimilative organs, thereby enriching the blood and invigorating the entire system. Next, it enables the weak, worn-out stomach to thoroughly digest its food and convert the nourishing elements into bone, blood and muscle. The result is you feel strong, sturdy and well with the proper amount of flesh, as Nature intended. Sold by all good druggists.

NOT A MATTER FOR POLICE MAY REMODEL UNION JACK

Elderly Gentleman Meant Well, but He Had Not Allowed for Possible Contingencies.

The wisest person may sometimes make a serious mistake by judging entirely by appearance, as is shown by this case.

A careless young woman, in starting to leave a car, dropped her purse. A young man, who evidently intended to leave the car at the same time, saw her drop the purse, picked it up and put it into his pocket.

But his action had not been unnoticed. Just as he stepped from the car an elderly man gripped him by the arm and whispered: "If you don't give that purse to the young lady this instant I'll expose you."

"Yes, certainly!" gasped the astonished young man. Then, with a grin, "I beg pardon, Marle; you dropped your purse."

"Oh, thank you, Harry," she replied, as she took it.

"I hope you are satisfied," said Harry, turning to the elderly man. "The lady is my sister."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Keep a diary for two or three years; and then, if you don't burn it, you're different.

Ireland's New Position in British Empire Likely to Bring Change in Famous Flag.

Among the lesser and more sentimental sacrifices the British feel they are making for Irish peace, there is the prospect of the changed Union Jack.

On the death of Charles I the cross of St. George again became the national flag, but in 1706, after the union with Scotland, the cross stood with the blue background was restored. In 1801 the red cross of St. Patrick was superimposed on St. Andrew's cross, making the present Union Jack.

Why does any healthy person want to be kicked into wakefulness in the morning?

Many people feel that they have to be agitated into wakefulness in the morning. They think that without the tea or coffee they take in the morning that they will not be able to meet the tasks and duties of the day.

Nothing could be more false than this reasoning. Any doctor can tell you this. For a healthy body does not require a stimulant. It gets all the stimulant it needs from food.

The thein and caffeine found in tea and coffee are irritating to the heart and nervous system. They jolt the nerves into undue activity. The result is a reaction. This is why regular tea and coffee drinkers think they must have their stimulant the first thing in the morning to wind them up for the day.

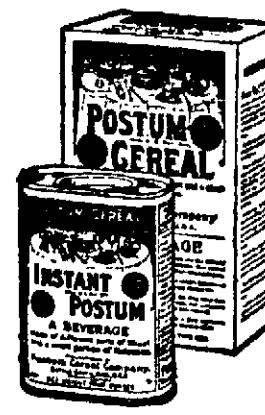

If you will stop using tea and coffee for a week, and drink

Postum, the pure cereal beverage instead, it will give Nature an opportunity to rid the system of the irritating substances that harass your nerves, upset digestion, increase your heart action, and make you nervous and irritable.

Many people who have tried Postum say that inside of a week they wake in the morning without that "all gone" feeling that they used to have, and are full of energy, strength and endurance.

Order Postum from your grocer today, and make it according to directions. Your first sip of Postum will surprise and please you.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

JUMPED BAIL AND FLED

Arthur C. Parr, of near Hanover, who was arrested in that place on Wednesday and admitted using the mails for sending threatening letters and trying to extort money from James E. Stout, also of Hanover, has disappeared. The man was left out on $500 bail, following his arrest and when the case was called before Squire Sell in that place on Saturday morning, he was not present. Investigation was made and it was then discovered that Parr had left for parts unknown. Parr had sent a letter, he confessed, through the Hanover post office, to Mr. Stout, directing him to carry $300 and pay that sum to Parr. He also made threats to get even with Stout if it took ten years. After Parr had been arrested by Officer Crabbs, he was taken before Inspector Smith, of the postal service and given a complete grilling. It was then that he admitted that he was the author and sender of the letter. The sending of a threatening letter thru the mails is a serious offense and is punishable by not more than three years solitary confinement at hard labor and a fine of $1,000.

It is said that enmity existed between Parr and Stout sometime after Stout had wired a house for Parr and tried to collect for the electrical work.

SEAKS BONS' OPINION

Honorable E. S. Brooks, member of Congress from the twenty-second district, which includes York and Adams counties, has sent a number of form letters to his constituents in this section, as well as to members of the various American Legion posts in the county in order to ascertain their stand on the Soldiers' and Sailors' Adjusted Compensation bill which is before the present session of Congress at Washington. A lively fight is being waged for and against this measure all over the country and it is Mr. Brooks' idea to get an opinion from the voters and ex-service men in this county before he takes his stand on the measure when it is reported out of the Ways and Means committee to the House. At the last session of Congress when a similar bill was before the House, Mr. Brooks cast his vote in favor of the measure. At the opening of his letter, Mr. Brooks asks the question whether the Adjusted Compensation Bill should be passed at the present time or tabled until the financial condition of the country is more favorable.

ARTERY SEVERED

While Mrs. Paul Kitzmiller, Hamilton township, was carrying a crock of milk in her hand, Thursday, a sudden gust of wind blew the door against her, breaking the crock, a piece of which cut a deep gash in her arm severing an artery. At the time of the accident Mrs. Kitzmiller was alone at home except for two small children, and she was obliged to go to a neighbor's house to phone for a doctor. Drs. T. C. Miller, Abbottstown, and Edgar Miller, of East Berlin, were summoned, and on their arrival they found she had lost so much blood that it was necessary to take her to Warner hospital for treatment, which was done immediately.

DR. ELGIN'S PETITION OUT

The petition of Dr. Eugene Elgin, East Berlin, who seeks re-election as Adams county's representative in the state legislature, is being circulated in this county by the physician's many friends. Dr. Elgin was an active member of the last legislature and was appointed on a number of important committees. He was especially active in the interest of all bills coming before the body which were beneficial to farmers and for the betterment of agricultural conditions in the state.

A slight automobile accident occurred Sunday when an automobile driven by an unknown McSherrystown man crashed into the machine of Robert Alwine, residing near Abbottstown, along the Lincoln Highway, about two miles east of that place. None of the occupants of either car was injured. It is claimed by residents of the community that the McSherrystown car was driven by a man under the influence of liquor. Alwine, it is claimed, was as far to the right hand side of the road as he could get, when the car struck him head on. Both machines were damaged. Alwine was driving west on the highway at the time, and the other car was eastward bound.

Two grey foxes furnished excitement for 35 riders, 20 dogs and about 300 spectators Wednesday afternoon at a chase at Hunterstown. The first fox was liberated at the west end of town and after two hours the animal was caught on the W. B. McIlhenny farm. The dogs caught the fox first, Frank Weaver saving the animal from death. The second fox, which was released at the south end of that town furnished sport for about half an hour and was caught by Robert Bream. Both foxes were later killed by their captors.

"SIGHT UNSEEN"

Consumer Takes Long Chance
When He Buys From the Mail Order House.

GENERALLY IS LOSING GAME

Method of Doing Business Is Very Different When You Purchase Goods From Your Home Merchant.

(Copyright.)
When you were a youngster, did you ever make a trade, "sight unseen"? Of course you did. What boy has not risked his jackknife or his choicest marble on such a proposition and how often has he repented of his rash deed when he discovered what he got in the trade? He generally found that the deal turned out to the advantage of the one who made the proposition.

There is a little of the gambling instinct in the blood of nearly every man, woman and child, but even the hardened gambler likes to get a "run for his money." The "sight unseen" proposition doesn't appeal to him in the least. There are thousands of people, however, who would be properly indignant if they were accused of being gamblers, who every day take a chance on the greatest gambling game in the world. And worse than that; they are risking their money on a "sight unseen" proposition.

When one of the thousands of persons who build up and keep up the great mail order houses of the country sends his money away to pay for some article that he has selected from the mail order catalogue, he is taking a chance on getting what he expects to get. The mail order house may be perfectly honest and still the purchaser stands a good chance of not getting what he expects to get. The mail order catalogues are filled with pictures that catch the eye. The descriptions are brief, as they must be when thousands of articles are to be described within the confines of one book. No matter how hard the mail order house might try to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, it would be an impossibility. The buyer is simply taking a chance.

Buying "Sight Unseen."
How much more satisfactory it is to walk into a store in your home town and ask to see an article which you may have seen advertised in your home paper. What would anyone think of your business ability or your common sense if you walked into a store at home and said: "I saw a picture in the paper today of a suit which I liked very much. Please wrap up one for me. Here's the money." The merchant would think that you were crazy, but that is exactly what you do every time you send an order to a mail order house. You buy "sight unseen" and you haven't a ghost of a chance of getting your money back if the article is unsatisfactory when it reaches you.

How different is the proceeding when you go into the store in your own home town to buy a suit of clothes, or a stove or a yard of ribbon. You may have seen a picture of it in the merchant's advertisement in the home paper and you know that, as the merchant is reliable, you can count on the goods being as he represents them in his advertisement. But does he ask you to take his word for everything? Does he hide the article behind the counter and tell you that you can't even see it until you buy it and pay over the money for it? Hardly. If the article is not already in plain sight on the counter, the merchant produces it for your inspection. If it does not exactly suit you, he has others that are a little different and that he is glad to have you inspect.

Then, if it is a suit of clothes you are buying, or a piece of dress goods or a pair of socks, you may ask if the merchant will guarantee that it will wear as long as an article of that kind could be expected to wear and he will tell you either that he will guarantee it or that he will not. If he tells you that he will guarantee it you will know that you will get your money back or another suit or another pair of socks in its place if it doesn't wear like it should, for the merchant, besides being an honest man in most cases, cannot afford not to make his word good. He is dependent upon your business and that of others in his own community and he cannot afford to misrepresent his goods.

After having all this opportunity to see what you are buying, you take your suit or your stove or whatever it is you buy home or it is sent home for you without any delivery charges, and after you get home and take another look at it and decide you don't want it after all, you send it back.

You are not buying something "sight unseen" when you buy from your home merchant. You don't look at a picture of an article in a newspaper, read a short description of it, go to the post office and buy a money order and send it to the merchant with the instructions, "Send me a suit of clothes"—or a stove or whatever it may be—"and I'll pay your delivery man 50 cents for delivering it to me."

There's a world of difference in the two methods of doing business and it's not hard to figure out which is the best for the man who is doing the buying.

SCHOOL DIRECTORS MEET

The 31st annual convention of the school directors of Adams county opened in the court house Friday morning with practically all of the members of the association present. Howard S. Reigle, of McSherrystown, the president, made the opening address. Speakers for the morning and afternoon sessions included Dr. A. C. Rathmel, principal of the Keystone State Normal school, of Kutztown, and Dr. C. C. Ellis, vice-president of Juniata College. The report of the three delegates to the State Convention of School Directors was read by Irvin S. Brumgard, of Littlestown. The report gave a detailed account of the State meeting and was unanimously accepted at the end of its reading. Two three delegates at the State Convention were Irvin S. Brumgard, Littlestown; Samuel E. Baker, Hamilton township, and Edward C. Keefer, of York Springs.

The convention went into a business session following the address of Mr. Rothmel when Jacob M. Hulick, of New Oxford, read the treasurer's report for the past year. A balance of $30 was shown in the hands of the treasurer.

Rev. T. C. Hesson, of Arendtsville, succeeds Howard S. Reigle, of McSherrystown, as president of the association. In addition, Irvin S. Brumgard, of Littlestown, was chosen first vice president; William C. Van Scoy, of Littlestown, second vice president; George B. Black, of Gettysburg, secretary; L. C. Bucher, of Benderville, treasurer, and Reuben D. Schwartz, of Mt. Joy township, auditor. Calvin A. Chuck, Franklin township; John H. Senfey, Hagerstown; John W. Rader, East Berlin, were chosen delegates to the State convention. Philip Wagaman, Mt. Pleasant township, Ernest Dittinger, of Menallen township, and The A. Low, Hamilton township, were selected as alternates.

On Saturday the Teachers' Annual Rally was held in the Gettysburg high school building. Walter W. Davis, for several years manager of the Hanover McCrory 5 & 10 Store, resigned his position, to take effect, March 15th. Mr. Davis has accepted a position with Wentz Bros. & Frey. Frank Willet, who had been a clerk in the Army & Navy Store, Hanover, has accepted a position in the McCrory Store, where he was formerly employed.

Excellent Remedy for Constipation.
—It would be hard to find a better remedy for constipation than Chamberlain's Tablets. They are easy to take and mild and gentle in effect. Give them a trial when you have need.

FIERY, ITCHING SKIN IS QUICKLY SOOTHED WITH THIS SULPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema, that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing soothes fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist. The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.
A small jar of Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.

Storm Country Polly

by Grace Miller White

Copyright by Little, Brown and Company

THE MILLIONS whose hearts were touched by the story of "Tess of the Storm Country" or who were equally affected by the sweet, pathetic little heroine as acted on the screen by Mary Pickford, will be charmed by this new tale of the squatter folk who once lived on Lake Cayuga, a few miles outside of Ithaca, N.Y.

Polly herself, crude and untaught, but beautiful in face and fine in spirit, is an adorable heroine, loyal through thick and thin, tempestuous at times when her anger is aroused by wrong or injustice, but tenderness itself to all weak and helpless creatures.

The situations in "Storm Country Polly" are tensely emotional, skillfully portrayed and adroitly handled, and the reader's sympathy with Polly and her people never lapses from start to finish.

STOLEN SEDAN RECOVERED

A Ford sedan belonging to J. I. Hereter was stolen on Tuesday evening in Hagerstown and was discovered along the road from Greencastle to Chambersburg early on Wednesday morning. Mrs. Hereter and Miss Maybelle Hereter had gone to Hagerstown to visit Mrs. Roy Phillipy on Monday. Intending to stay several days. The car was stolen while standing in front of the Phillipy home. Mr. Phillipy was attending a meeting in Gettysburg on Tuesday and word was sent to him to look out for the car on his way home. He discovered it not far from Chambersburg in bad condition, broken headlights, bent fenders and broken radius rod, suggesting a collision. No clues were found of the thieves.

The case of John R. Humpton, of Parkesburg, vs. Basehoar & Mehring, of Littlestown, in action in trespass, to recover damages for injuries to plaintiff's automobile in a collision on Lincoln Highway on April 8, 1921, was heard before the courts of West Chester last week. Thursday morning a sealed verdict was filed with the Court, the jurors granting to Mr. Humpton $318.00 on his claim of $644.23. Two more suits are to be heard in May, that of Basehoar & Mehring vs. Humpton, and that of Charles Pfeffer vs. Humpton, in which Pfeffer claims $10,000 damages for injuries received in the accident.

The consistory of the German Reformed congregation of Gettysburg, has made application to the Court of Common Pleas praying that its charter be amended by changing its corporate name to "Trinity Reformed Church of Gettysburg, Pa." and the said Court has fixed March 6th as time for hearing said petition. For 30 years the congregation has been known as Trinity Reformed which title it was christened at the rededication exercises of the present edifice in 1892, by Dr. T. J. Barkley the pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Emwert, York Springs, have received an announcement of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Herman Singer, of Leipzig, Germany. Mrs. Singer is a niece of the Hummerts and is well known in York Springs.

Roy J. Seidenstricker, of Hanover, who has been in China since the early part of 1920 as a member of Co. L, 15th Inf., will leave the Celestial republic within the next few weeks and expects to reach the States in June.

LAXATIVE for Aged People

THE BANE of old age is constipation. The bowels become weak and unable to perform their functions without aid. For this purpose only the mildest and gentlest laxative should be used. The use of harsh cathartics aggravates the trouble and makes the constipation worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are a favorite with people of middle age and older on account of their gentle action.

SUES MAN FOR TAKING KISS

Leighton Taylor, formerly of Bendersville, but now residing in Washington, has been named defendant in a suit filed at Washington, Wednesday, for $100,000 damages for alleged assault and battery on the person of Mrs. Alma C. Smythe, of Alexandria, Va. Mr. Taylor was born in Cumberland county, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Taylor. His parents moved to Bendersville when he was a boy 6 years old. He left Bendersville about 15 years ago and after completing a business course at Lancaster became secretary to a number of prominent men in this state. Mr. Taylor was secretary to the late Senator Boies Penrose and was clerk of the Senate Finance Committee. The declaration filed by Mrs. Smythe charges that about May 1, 1921, she went to the Senate Finance Committee room to see Senator Penrose, and that "the said Leighton Taylor, without any justifiable, reasonable, or probable cause, whatever, rudely, unlawfully and with much force and violence, grabbed hold of, and kissed the plaintiff without her consent and over her resistance." All of this is emphatically denied by Taylor.

Following a great scrimmage at a pig chase at York Springs, Saturday week, in which competition was so effective that at last by common consent and in mercy to the bleeding pig, the contest was abandoned and the pig drawn for, it being fairly won by Clarence Lehmer. In the fox chase, after being run about 10 miles, the fox was caught by the dogs about a mile west of that town, Dilbert Lory being the first to get the carcass. The Adams County Sabbath School Association has taken up the promotion of the Daily Vacation Bible School in dead earnest and realizes that it is not a bit too soon to start preparations. It is a matter of deep interest to parents, children and Sunday School workers and is simply a school operated by the church, in the church during the summer vacation months for the better moral religious training of the child.

Dr. A. B. Statton, of Hagerstown, Superintendent of Salem U. B. church, has announced the appointment of Rev. E. H. Hummelbaugh as chairman and Irvin G. Naugle, as lay chairman, of committees in a drive for funds for that denomination in Adams county to be held this spring.

Calvin Mummert, on the C. N. Myers poultry farm, near Mt. Pleasant, killed three porkers on Wednesday, the combined weights of which were 1533 pounds. They weighed 587, 523 and 428 pounds respectively.

MAY GIVE SHICK TEST

In order to get the sentiment of the parents of school children in Adams county with regard to their giving consent to the general use of the Shick test in all schools of the county, Dr. J. Bruce McCreary, associate chief medical director of the State Department of Health, has sent questionnaires to every doctor in this county with instructions to fill them in and return them after a week's inquiry. The purpose of the Shick test which was demonstrated at the Warner hospital on 8 children of the school age on January 7 this year, is to find out whether the child has natural immunization from the diphtheria germ. If the test discloses a negative result, no toxin-antitoxin need be injected, but should the test result in a positive diagnosis after 48 hours, then the serum toxin-antitoxin will be injected into the system of the patient until further tests disclose that the patient is immune. Once immune by the use of this serum, there is no danger of ever contracting diphtheria. Within the next week, doctors will advise teachers to ask their pupils what their parents think of the plan proposed by Dr. McCreary and if a sufficiently high percentage of parents consent to the use of the test on their children, it will be administered without cost to either the parents or the school authorities. The test, if administered at a hospital would cost in the neighborhood of $15, it is said. That the test is perfectly harmless is shown by the fact that recently it was tried on 2000 infants, all less than a year old without fatal result.

On March 1, the freight bus line of the Gettysburg-Harrisburg Transportation Company was removed at the request of the Public Service Commission. The company will continue to operate their passenger buses between Gettysburg and Harrisburg and Harrisburg and Gettysburg and Littlestown. The charter for the company, signed by Governor Sproul and the secretary of the commonwealth, was received Saturday. It is said to be the first charter granted a corporation for hauling passengers by motor buses. Other charters are held by individuals.

Permanent organization was effected at an enthusiastic community meeting held Friday evening in the Biglerville High School auditorium when a constitution was adopted and an executive committee appointed, to complete the organization. A community fair will be held in September.

Large Public Sale

ON WEDNESDAY, MARCH 8, 1922, AT 10 O'CLOCK
A. M. SHARP.

Having sold my Buttonwood farm, it will be necessary to sell my herd of registered Holstein cattle, horses and farming implements on the farm known as BUTTONWOOD STOCK FARM, two and one-half miles west of Gettysburg along the Mummaburg road.

Thirty head of registered Holstein Friesian cattle, 23 head of horses and colts will be sold, also
A full line of farming implements on 600 acre farm, lot of farm gears and harness.

Thirty head of registered Holsteins consisting of cows, heifers, heifer calves, bull calves, by a great individual and among the best bred herd sires in the country.

This herd sire is by Rex Pontiac 116959 and out of Green Plain Cora Veeman 118344, with a butter record of 28½ pounds in seven days.

We believe that no herd sire has more uniform, high-class individuals than the get of this sire. His off-spring are low-set, sturdy, broad and deep-chested, and his daughters that have been freshening are uniformly strong milkers, of a good butter test.

This is a great milking herd, bred from the best bred lines of the Holstein breed.

Farmers and breeders will be given a great opportunity to supply themselves with pure bred registered Holstein stock from one of the best milking herds in this community. Breed registered pure bred cattle. State College and government institutions are uniformly advising the breeding of pure bred stock rather than animals of unknown breeding, showing by actual test that the profits from pure bred stock are from one-third to one-half more than common bred dairy cattle.

Sale will start at 10 o'clock sharp. Send for catalogue to

is easy to use
No other lye is packed so safely and conveniently, or is so economical—not a bit wasted.
No other lye or soap cleans and disinfects
so easily and thoroughly as Banner Lye. It is not old-style lye. Odorless and colorless;
the greatest cleanser and disinfectant the world has ever known. Use it for cleaning
your kitchen, cellar, sinks, dairy, milk-pans
and bottles, for softening water, and the labor of washing and cleaning will be cut in half.

Makes pure soap
and saves money besides. A can of Banner Lye, 5½ pounds of kitchen grease, ten minutes' easy work (no boiling or large kettles), and you have 10 pounds of best hard soap of 20 gallons of soft soap.
Banner Lye is sold by your grocer or druggist.
Visit us for free booklet, "Uses of Banner Lye."

HEAVY MEAT EATERS HAVE SLOW KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backache or have bladder trouble—Take
glass of Salts

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat
and get about four ounces of Jad-Salts from any pharmacy; take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice,
combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids
in urine so it no longer causes irritation,
thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent
lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens
So Naturally that Nobody can tell.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur
to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who
value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage
and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning
the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair
after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it
an appearance of abundance.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart color and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg
Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a teaspoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time during the day or before retiring.
It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion.
Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe
and harmless.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

Rub Pain and Stiffness away with a small bottle of old honest
St. Jacobs Oil

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has
you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 35 cent bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness
is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery.
It is magical, yet absolutely harmless
and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica
and lame back misery so promptly!

Advertising protects you; buy advertised goods.

Healing Cream Stops Catarrh

Clogged Air Passages Open at Once—Nose and Throat Clear.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head stuffed because of catarrh or a cold, get Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this pure, antiseptic, germ destroying cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head and membranes. Instant relief.

How good it feels. Your head is clear. Your nostrils are open. You breathe freely. No more hawking or snuffling. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up, choked up and miserable. Relief is sure.

SURPRISE PARTY

Found a Cure for Indigestion.—"I use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for indigestion and find they suit my case better than any dyspepsia remedy I have ever tried and I have used many different medicines.
I am nearly fifty one years of age and have suffered a great deal from indigestion. I can eat almost anything
I want to, now," writes George W.
Emory, Rock Mills, Ala. These tablets contain no poison but strengthen the stomach and enable it to digest
the food naturally.

The old store stand in McSherrys-town of John T. Rily, now of Philadelphia, owned by Roy R. Rudisill, which is being remodeled, will soon have two occupants. Edward Overbaugh, who conducts a barber shop in the Pfaltzgraf apartments will open a barber shop on the one side. The other side will be used by Herbert
Smith, for an electrical shoe repairing shop. It is understood the machinery for the same is now on its way.

Charles Altland, Abbottstown, held public sale of the stock and implements Saturday. Following were the prevailing prices: Pair of mules, $248; old pair mules, $170; single mules, $148, $150, $148 and $198;
blind horse, $61; old horse, $30; horse,
$79; seven head of cows, $45 to $80;
25 bulls, $25 to $60; shoats, $6 to $8
per head. Total receipts were $2,995.

GOOD ROADS NECESSARY FOR RURAL DELIVERIES

The following is the gist of a letter which has been sent to Postmaster General from which Rural delivery routes start:

In cases of impassable roads, for location of road, unsafe bridges, dangerous loads or other obstruction to service on rural routes, the postmaster at distributing office shall notify the patrons affected and the road supervisors or officials in charge of such matters and request that the necessary repairs be made and if to be made and not made promptly the postmaster shall report the facts to the Fourth A. S. Postmaster General, at Washington, D. C., with recommendations for an amendment of the route to withdraw it as being impracticable or un-attainable. Postmaster shall in like manner report every instance where a non-automatic route is being maintained on any road covered by rural delivery service.

Postmaster General

The Pneumonia Month. March is a ter, the system loses much of its typical pneumonia month and usually gives a high rate of mortality for the disease. After a long and hard winter and people grow careless. When every cold no matter how slight, is given prompt and intelligent attention, there is much less danger of pneumonia. It should be born in mind that pneumonia is a germ disease and breeds in the throat. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an expectorant and cleans out the germ laden mucus and not only cures a cold but prevents its resulting in pneumonia. It is pleasant to take. Children take it willingly.

The Department of Forestry will develop 12 public camp grounds in the State Forests this spring. They will be fully equipped for the convenience of campers and sportsmen, and will be ready for use when the trout-fishing season opens, April 15. One of them will be developed at Caledonia Park, on the Lincoln highway, between Gettysburg and Chambersburg. Thousands of automobile tourists, many of them campers, motor over that highway to the battlefield every summer, and it is believed they will use the camp ground maintained by the Department.

STOP THAT ACHE

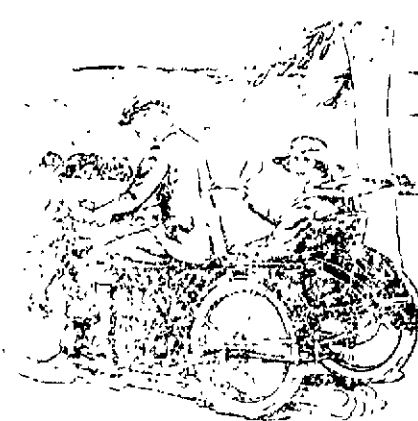

Don't worry and complain about a bad back. Get rid of that pain and lameness! Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Many grateful people have used them and know how effective they are. Ask your neighbor. Here's a convincing case.

Mrs. J. S. Funk, 31 S. Church St., Waynesboro, Pa., says: Some time ago I was suffering from kidney trouble. I had a terrible backache that was worse in the morning than at any other time. The pain shot up my spine until it reached my head. I got dizzy and my eyes felt badly. These troubles made me feel very depressed and miserable. None of the medicine I tried did me much good until I finally got Doan's Kidney Pills. They relieved all this and made me feel like a different woman."

OVER FIVE YEARS LATER, Mrs. Funk said: "I wouldn't be without Doan's Kidney Pills in my home. I only need them occasionally when a cold settles on my kidneys."

Bell Phone 8-R3

Looking through an old Bell Directory is as interesting as rummaging through grandmother's trunk in the attic.

It is a good way to check up on the progress of the community. It is surprising to find how often the first users of the telephone were the men of vision who later developed into leaders in their respective fields.

The first telephone directory was merely a sheet of paper with the names of about a dozen subscribers. In most cases no numbers were printed in the directory and calls were made by name. You simply said to the operator "Get me Mrs. Jones."

Every new telephone directory is a new footprint in the path of progress. The extension of the service and your increasing dependence on this means of communication is a tribute to the performance of the Bell Telephone System in the past.

New problems of operation and management develop as fast as the old ones are solved, but we have faith in our ability to meet the demands of each new era as we have met those of the past.

And we have the benefit of the experience of others who are working on similar problems in other parts of the Bell System.

Young People Need to Be Shown That Farming Can Be Made to Pay

By PROF. E. A. ROSS, University of Wisconsin.

In a general way the flow to the cities is normal and inevitable. Cheap transportation provides the denizens of great cities with food at moderate prices. Hundreds of articles that two generations ago were home made are now factory made and these factories are in cities. Power-driven machinery on the farm releases a part of the rural population for other pursuits. The state of affairs has stimulated the exodus of the young people from the hard work and penny-punching of the farms to the prospering, easy-going cities.

The country has not been keeping a fair share of its brighter boys and girls. It has been the young people with spirit and initiative who have responded to the call of the distant city. Had they stayed on the farm, this spirit of initiative would have shown itself along rural lines.

In certain older parts of the country which have been losing their young people to the West and the cities for two generations, there is a visible moral decline. The roads are neglected so there is less social intercourse and a smaller turnout to school, to church and public events. School buildings and grounds have deteriorated. The church is in a rut or has even disappeared. Frivolity engrosses the young because no one organizes singing schools, literary societies or debating clubs. The next generation, having missed the benefits of these communal institutions, shows itself coarse, sensual and irresponsible. There is a marked decline in the standards of individual and family morality. This is an explanation of the "degeneracy" that one finds in certain rural parts of New England and middle states.

The remedy is to make life on the farms more attractive. There is need of redirecting rural education, reinvigorating the rural church, multiplying societies of recreative opportunities and dispelling the false glamour of the distant city. The young people need to be shown that farming can be made to pay if one puts brains and energy to it.

The Interference of Radical Leaders of Both Capital and Labor

By HENRY J. ALLEN, Governor of Kansas.

Industrial squabbles are the worst menace which this country faces today. Kansas faced the same situation two years ago and met it successfully with an industrial tribunal for the settlement of disputes between capital and labor. Such a tribunal placed on the statute books of the nation today would bring industrial peace.

We have passed through an industrial crisis which was settled temporarily by the railroad labor board. Of course, settlement of any strike is a good thing, but personally I would have been glad if the rail strike had materialized.

The question then would have been whether the government would rule, and I believe that there was enough Dutch courage in this congress to have passed legislation calling for an industrial tribunal.

We could then sit and say to labor and to the employer, "If you cannot settle your quarrels without bringing civil war on the helpless public, then this government will do it for you."

Racial Deterioration Evident Among All Highly Civilized Peoples

By MAJ. LEONARD DARWIN, Son of Charles Darwin.

Racial deterioration seems evident among all highly civilized peoples because of the thinning out of the descendants of highly endowed stock and the multiplication of those of inferior endowment. The result is anticipated that in comparison with the ill-endowed, the naturally well-endowed will, as time goes on, take a smaller and smaller part in the production of the coming generations, with a tendency to progressive racial deterioration as an inevitable consequence. Statistical inquiries prove conclusively that, where good incomes are being earned, there the families are on the average small.

I can find no facts which refute the theoretical conclusion that the inherent qualities of civilized communities are deteriorating, and the process will inevitably lead in time to an all-round downward movement.

What is necessary is to make it deeply and widely felt that it is both immoral and unpatriotic for couples sound in mind and body to unduly limit the size of their families. The nation that wins in this moral campaign will have gone half-way toward gaining a great racial victory.

Upon the Integrity of American Homes Depends Our Whole National Life

By RT. REV. W. A. GUERRY, Episcopal Bishop South Carolina.

The startling statement that one-twentieth of all marriages in the United States end in divorce is of itself sufficient to arouse every earnest man and woman to the seriousness of the situation that confronts us.

Upon the integrity and purity of the American home depends the whole superstructure of our national life. Where the home is undermined and destroyed and children cast adrift by a selfish and self-centered individualism, there is an end of all social and moral restraint.

To combat the growing evil of divorce in this country a group of public-spirited men and women have been trying to get through congress a uniform divorce law. What is known as the Edmonds bill aims to accomplish this end. The purpose of this bill is to limit the grounds of divorce.

One difficulty in the way of a wide-spread publicity and agitation in favor of more stringent divorce laws grows out of the fact that the divorce evil has become universal. Another trouble is that most people who are seeking divorce are not satisfied with a legal separation. The underlying purpose of it all is too often the intention of marrying again as soon as the divorce has been granted.

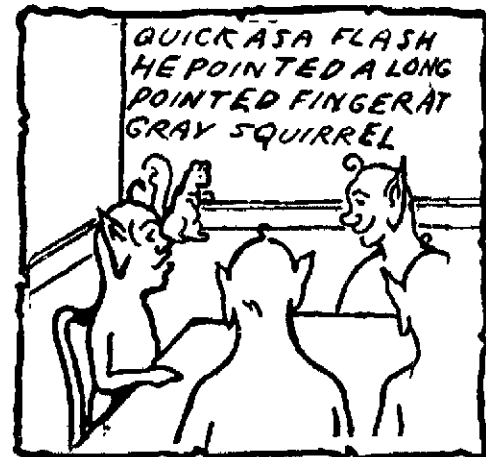

THE GREEDY SQUIRREL

HE IS sure it all happened, but his mother told him if he had not eaten such a heavy supper he would not have dreamed it—but for all that he has his tail to prove his story.

Grey Squirrel had a very bad habit of getting up after all the family were in bed and getting nuts that were to be served for breakfast, for he was a greedy little fellow and cared little about anyone but himself.

One night as he got out of his bed he saw a light shining, and when he looked out of the window of his home

he saw under the bushes across the path a long table spread for a feast.

Around the table sat so many little men in green and red suits that Grey could not count them.

These little men all wore red caps, which they were very careful to make sure were on their heads, for every once in a while Grey noticed that they would feel to see that the red cap was in place.

Of course, the little men feasting were Goblins and Grey should have known better than to have gone out of the house while they could be seen, for those little magic people are very jealous of any eyes that look at them other than their own magic folks.

But his greediness soon got him into trouble, for he poked his little head out too far and a Goblin saw him.

Quick as a flash he pointed a long pointed finger at Grey Squirrel and gave a funny little cry of "kool, kool."

Grey Squirrel, of course, expected to dart back from sight and run as he always did; but to his surprise he found he could not move his head or feet or his tail.

Grey tried again to run, but it was no use, he could not move and in another second the funny little men stood in a circle around him.

"He is a good nut cracker," said one. "Why not make him a Grey Goblin and have him for our servant? He could crack all our nuts, and to punish him still more for pecking at us tonight we will not let him eat any; only crack them for us."

"Never eat another nut!" thought poor Grey. "Why, I'd rather lose my

"What's in a Name?"

Facts about your name: its history, meaning, whence it was derived, significance, your lucky day and lucky jewel

LOIS

LOIS is really a masculine name. It means "famous war" and comes from the Teutonic nomenclature through the Karling romances. Lois or Loiz, as it is sometimes spelled, is really Louis.

The French king whom the French knew as Louis de Debonnaire, was originally called Luiduic. The Provençal promptly softened the name to Alois, but so popular did Louis become that no member of the French royal family was christened without it. Finally the soft Alois gained favor throughout France and the "a" was dropped, producing the musical Loys. The Bretons were already using the name of Lois, so the "y" in Loys disappeared and Lois appeared and remained permanent.

Loys was the only form of the innumerable versions of Louis that became applied as a feminine name. Spain's Lois has never wavered from its masculine interpretation, nor has the Loiz of Portugal. France formed an Heloise from Lois and Louise might possibly be called an equivalent for Lois if it were not for that strain of Provençal.

Lois has been given in baptism generally as a name of sentiment. It is a trifle difficult to pronounce but is undoubtedly beautiful and extraordinarily popular in this country.

The talismanic gem assigned to Lois is the onyx. It should be worn with care as it is inclined to cool affection, provoke discord and separate lovers, but worn by Lois it prevents these very misfortunes. Monday is her lucky day and 4 her lucky number.

WHEN TO READ

What do you read?—Shakespeare.

A YOUNG bride writes with the following complaint: "My husband's older brother, who is making his home with us, insists on reading his morning paper at the breakfast table. This is annoying to me and I feel that it is an act of discourtesy to me. Although my husband himself does not do it he says it is quite all right for his brother to do so. What do you say about it?"

It is so usual for our busy husbands and fathers and brothers to read the paper over their breakfast, often because they feel that it is the only time they have to do so, that it would be unfair to say that they are thereby doing us an act of discourtesy. However, I do agree with you that it is not very good manners. Where one does not have the excuse of reading the paper because it is the only opportunity to do so at breakfast then it is less pardonable than otherwise. If it is quite clear that the reading is simply actuated by curiosity and impatience then there is even less excuse for it. The fact is that with many families mealtime is the only opportunity for friendly leisurely intercourse and where one person chooses to put a damper on that spirit he is acting in a decidedly unsocial manner.

If a person breakfasts alone that is another matter. Then he may read the paper for companionship. So in a hotel restaurant when you occupy a table by yourself you are not showing bad manners; to do so though if you must eat at a table with other persons even if they are strangers to you, you are not showing very much politeness if you prop the paper up before you. The practice of paper reading has become so general at breakfast time that there are little metal paper props in the stores for which there is considerable demand, making it possible for one to eat undisturbed and have one's paper held at a convenient angle before him.

There is really no reason why one should not read a paper in the car or train though, of course, the courteous man or woman will contrive to hold the paper or magazine or book so that it does not annoy his neighbors or so that his elbows in holding it do not prod them. It is extremely discourteous to read paper or magazine at a lecture, or any performance. If this does not actually embarrass the performers it is the kind of thing that detracts from the enjoyment of the other members of the audience. And never, never read when some one is talking to you. To be sure, you may be able to attend to what is being said to you and sense what you are reading at the same time, but it is the sort of discourtesy that is almost never excusable.

ORANG-UTAN

"I've forgotten whether I was named after another Orang-Utan or after a Chimpanzee," said the Orang-Utan, "but anyway my name is Toto and I was named after one of those two creatures I have mentioned."

"I'm one of the creatures myself. That is—I am an Orang-Utan and mighty pleased I am to be one. I think I will sing a song about it."

So the Orang-Utan sang in his funny little voice,

An Orang-Utan am I,
And never do I sigh,
For I'm happy as the day is long,
This is all to my little song.

"Are you going to tell the story of your life, Toto?" asked another Orang-Utan in the zoo.

"I don't know," said Toto, "but I will tell something of the ways of the Orang-Utan family. It would be a pity if people didn't know about us and how friendly we are. It would be a great pity indeed."

"From the time an Orang-Utan is a little baby he is a dear, cunning little creature."

"When he is little he is a dear little creature, wanting to be friendly with everyone. If no one will be friendly with him he cries in a sad little voice. But an Orang-Utan baby makes friends. He is such a darling!"

"Then he usually has such beautiful brown eyes, which look so pleadingly at everyone."

"We haven't feet shaped as the Chimpanzee has, and we don't dress up with so much ease as he does, because we cannot wear shoes very comfortably."

"Our toes are long and shoes don't fit us well. But we are much more friendly than he is, though he may have more brains than we have. We have brains though. Yes, plenty of brains and we're surely next to the Chimpanzee as far as brains are concerned. I'm quite sure of that."

"He is more nervous than we are. And we're more affectionate."

"Even though I am such a big creature I like to be held by my keeper. I suppose I will be heavier than he is one of these days. I'm not sure,

"I Am Proud."

but I know we become very heavy in time.

"But I never want to grow so big that I can't be loved by my keeper. For how I do adore to be loved by him, and how I do care to play with him and show him how much I love him!"

"I play with some of his friends who come to the zoo, too. And I've some good friends among them."

"My name of Orang means man, and my second name of Utan means jungle, for often I am known in the free state as the jungle man. I am called Toto by my keeper just as a boy is called by a special name."

"A boy is called Jimmie or Sam or Johnny or some such name."

"Some of us like to do tricks and others of us like to find out all we can and learn all we can, but all of us are pretty bright and pretty good at tricks."

"When I was free I used to live in a big nest in a tree which was strong but which used to blow a bit and move a bit so we could swing. We slept on beds of lovely branches and while we slept on our backs we always had our hands and feet about a branch so we could never fall or become hurt by any such accident."

"But, oh, while sometimes I think of the free days, I am happy here in the zoo. I am proud too, because my keeper loves me so."

"I would never go back on him. No, there isn't a mean or tricky or treacherous or unkind thing about me or my family. A mean orang-utan is something I have never seen and if there ever are any about I hope I won't see them as I'd not want to feel the family was disgraced."

"No, we are true and loyal, and we never change. Ah, there comes my good keeper friend now. I shall give him my finest kiss!"

Now He Knows.

"JUST POLLYOP—POLLY HOPKINS!"

"What's your name?" he inquired.

"Just Pollyop," was the answer. "Polly Hopkins. My daddy is Jeremiah Hopkins, the mayor of this settlement."

"Can I do something for you, Polly Hopkins?" queried Robert, as she finished telling about life in the squatters' city.

She flung out both hands in a comprehensive gesture as much as to say he could see for himself how much she needed.

"Sure, sure you can," she said with fierce emphasis. "You can make Old Marc leave us squatters be. You're bigger'n he is! The squatters need you awful bad."

Her voice broke. Robert took a long breath. Of course he could help this girl and her people. He would, too! As far as money gave power, he could equal and surpass Marcus MacKenzie.

"I did try to talk sense into Mr. MacKenzie's head," he returned presently, "but now I will make him leave you alone."

In spite of the curved lips about which a smile lurked, there was apprehension in her voice when she asked:

"Can you lick 'im to a finish, mister?"

"Yes, I think I could," laughed Robert; "but it won't be necessary."

"Then I see us Silent City folks bein' happy again," sighed Polly. "We got a awful lot of things an' folks to take care of here."

There you have them—Storm Country Polly and Robert Percival, heroine and hero of another of those fascinating stories by Grace Miller White. "Tess of the Storm Country" was her first story. It was printed as a serial in a magazine for women—and practically established the magazine. It was put on the movie screen—and made the fortune of a woman film star of world-wide fame. Of course Grace Miller White (Mrs. Friend H. Miller) kept right on writing of the "Storm Country." Half a dozen other stories have been successes. More than a million copies of her books have been sold. The "Storm Country," by the way, is Cayuga Lake and vicinity in New York, one of the garden spots of the world.

Given a beautiful and persecuted squatter girl and a nice young man with brains, sympathy and money—what more do you want for romance!

CHAPTER I.

Four miles from Ithaca, N. Y., Oscar Bennett's farm spread its acres along the face of West Hill between the Lehigh Valley tracks and the highway leading to Trumansburg. Oscar Bennett was what the country people and even the Ithaca folks called a fine farmer. His farmhouse faced a lane that led to the west shore of Lake Cayuga, and from the front porch he could see, much to his dislike, the few straggling squatter shacks that brought to an end northward the Silent City. Like all other substantial citizens, Oscar detested the squatters. In his estimation they were a set of thieving loafers and sneaks, and many times he had wished that he owned the ground they squatted on instead of Marcus MacKenzie.

Of course it was no secret that MacKenzie never let an opportunity slip to pop a fisherman into jail, but in Bennett's opinion that treatment was not severe enough, and besides, it did not accomplish anything. MacKenzie's idea was to jail the men whenever the chance came and for a period as long as the law would allow. But what good did that do? Fierce hatred flamed in the haggard faces of the women, and they held to their squatter rights with the tenacity of leeches until their husbands were given back to them. Bennett would have done away with the wives and mothers if the job of breaking up the Silent City had been his. No man would hang to a hut long without a woman in it.

One morning in the early spring Oscar was finishing his breakfast when the door opened slowly. A girl with a small tin pail in her hand stepped into the room. She smiled at him almost humbly.

"Shut the door!" he shouted at her. "Where's your manners, Polly Hopkins? Can't you see the rain's coming in after you?"

The smile faded from the girl's face. Mechanically she turned, closed the door and, uninvited, seated herself in a chair and placed the pail at her side.

"So you're come begging, Pollyop," went on the farmer, wiping his lips on the sleeve of his gingham shirt. "Well, you might as well turn tail and run home again, for you're not going to get anything more from me. I don't want a poacher's brat around here."

The girl's bare wet feet drew tensely backward under the chair; but she remained discreetly silent. Oscar always abused her and called her names, but that was because she was a squatter. After a while, he'd change his mind, and then she would take home what she came for. She noted with a quick breath that Oscar's eyes softened during the time he was silent. That boded well for her errand; but Bennett's mind was not on milk or any of those suffering for the want of it.

He had just discovered that Polly Hopkins was beautiful even if she were barefooted and ragged. Her straight young shoulders were covered with wet curls that seemed to have given to the wide eyes their shade of ripe chestnuts.

Polly expected every moment that Oscar would reach out for the pail, and, though with bad grace, he'd give her the milk just the same. She fidgeted in her chair and drew a long sigh—he was staring at her in such a peculiar manner from under his heavy brows.

Why had he not noticed before that Polly Hopkins was so pretty, Oscar wondered, and a slow smile parted his lips. Polly's eyes lowered, and the long dark lashes only added to Bennett's sudden admiration. A quick-drawn breath slipped audibly past the man's teeth. Pollyop sensed in his attitude toward her a new quality that she recognized intuitively as dangerous. To bring his attention back to the purpose of her visit, she ventured to say:

"I thought it wouldn't hurt you none, Oscar, to gimme a little milk for Granny Hope an' Jerry. I'm always runnin' errands for you an' your woman."

Bennett's heavy farm boots made a scraping sound under the table.

"What good does that do me?" he returned. "Upon my soul, I might as well be without a wife as to have one who won't live with me or let anyone know I'm her husband. I'm gettin' sick, good and plenty sick, I can tell you, Miss Polly Hopkins."

This speech did not disturb Polly over much, for he'd made it a dozen times before. It was only the expression in his gaze, she did not quite like. Her mind went to Evelyn Robertson, the girl that Oscar had married. As if it were but yesterday, she remembered how two years ago she had gone with them under protest to a minister far back in the hills. Evelyn had explained that for some time to come no one but the three must know of the marriage.

Pollyop had learned a great many things in two years! What girl does not after she's passed her fifteenth birthday? One of the things she had found out was that Oscar was a dreadful person, more dreadful than most of the squatter men. Of course the men folks of her people did beat their women, now and then. That was their right without any question. The blood colored even her ears as she remembered how Oscar hector'd his wife for the money it was so hard for Evelyn to get. Another thing she had come to understand was that, if Oscar had not been afraid of the powerful Robertson family, he would have forced Evelyn into his home long before this. It had been a hard two years' task to keep him quiet.

"Mebbe you are gettin' sick, Oscar," she interposed. "I don't know—mebbe; but you know what that old Miss Robertson would do to you an' her girl if you told. You'd get Eve, mebbe, but you sure wouldn't get any more money."

The man's face darkened.

"That's just the rub," he conceded, "but at that Eve ain't playing square with me. The Robertsons have money to burn, and she deals it out to me in small little dollars. I tell you I'm sick of the whole thing."

Polly noted the gutter in Bennett's angry eyes and felt again the quiver of fear.

"She gives you all she gets her fingers on," she came back at him in defense of the absent Evelyn. "Lots of times she's got along on about nothin' to send you cash, an' didn't I come runnin' up here with it as soon as she give it to me? Now her ma's gettin' on that Eve ain't spendin' her money on herself, an' she watches 'er like a hawk does a chicken. She told me that only yesterday."

The squatter girl rose to her feet, anxious to be gone.

"Oscar, you might be lettin' me have just a wee bit of milk. You ain't losin' nothin' through me."

She picked up the pail, and with a growl the man snatched it out of her hand.

"Women're a d-d nuisance," he grumbled. "Well, wait here."

He went out of the room, and Polly Hopkins drew a long breath. It was getting harder every day to get the milk she needed.

When Bennett returned, she was standing with her hand on the door knob, ready to go. In silence she took the pail he offered her.

"Looka here, Pollyop," he began abruptly, as Polly opened the door. "What's to hinder your paying for your milk yourself?"

He said it with extreme deliberation, making emphatic the last words.

Polly threw up her head and eyed him sharply. "I run my legs most off for you as 'tis, Oscar," she retorted, "between here and the Robertsons; but I don't never have no money. You know that, an' Daddy Hopkins don't get much, either. If I had a dollar, I bet I'd spend every penny of it fillin' up Jerry an' Daddy an' Granny Hope with milk an' eggs."

To make him understand how anxious she was to please him, she went forward a pace. "An' I'd buy 'em all of you, Oscar. That's as true as Granny Hope's God is settin' up in the sky."

"I didn't ask you for money," answered Bennett, staring at her. Suddenly he came close to her; and Polly backed to the door. His face was red and agitated; the cords in his neck were swollen while his fingers twisted eagerly. That was another thing about which Polly's eyes had been opened in two years of growing womanhood. When a man looked as Oscar did now, a girl got away as fast as she could.

"You might pay me in kisses," he muttered hoarsely, towering over her. "Ten kisses for each bucket. You're a heap prettier than Eve."

For a long moment Polly did not speak. Her breast heaved as she swayed backward.

"I get all the kisses I want to home," she said. "Here, take your hand off'n me, Oscar, or I'll tell Eve."

"I Didn't Ask You for Money."

the first time I get sight of her." She glared up at him like a cornered animal. "I said I'd tell Eve. I'll do more than that! I'll put old woman Robertson next to your coppin' her kid an' marryin' 'er."

Oscar's fingers relaxed, and his hand dropped away from her arm as a rough laugh left his lips. She looked so lovely, her eyes blazing, her curls tumbled in confusion on her shoulders, that he would have taken his pay for the milk without her permission if she had not thrown at him a threat he feared she would carry out.

"Men's kisses are what you'll get, my pretty lass," he predicted grimly, "and if I was finished with Eve, by God, I'd set about getting my share. I won't always be married to my lady Robertson, mind you, Pollyop."

The blood had left his face. He was quite white and stern, and by this time Polly was on the porch.

"Tain't so easy to get unmarried as 'tis to get married," she told him. "An' me! I'm just Daddy Hopkins' brat, an' I don't want any kisses but his'n. I'd let Jerry's tongue go twist for milk before I'd pay for it with—"

Oscar sprang at her. She was so tantalizingly beautiful, so alluring even in her grotesque attire that for the moment he forgot he had reason to fear her.

"I'll kiss you, anyway," he snarled, but Polly, feet-footed and afraid, shot from the porch and reached the lane, the milk dashing against the cover of the pail.

The man halted, looking after her. With a shrug of his shoulders he turned back into the house. For the moment he paused in the kitchen; he could hear his old mother pottering about overhead in his bedroom. She was doing the work his wife ought to do! What a fool he had been to marry Evelyn Robertson! Instead of the fortune he had expected, he was tied hand and foot without money or woman. He thought of the radiant squatter girl who had just left him. Two years ago womanhood had not dawned upon Polly Hopkins, but today—He underlined an oath and went out to the barn.

Polly Hopkins ran down the lane as fast as her legs could carry her. The milk was safe in the bucket, and she had scarcely reached the railroad tracks before she had decided not to mention Oscar's vicious demand upon her. If she told Daddy Hopkins, he would do some harm to Bennett, and there would be no more eggs and milk for Granny and Jerry. If she spoke of it to Evelyn, there was no telling what the girl would do.

The tangle-haired squatter girl was the daughter of Jeremiah Hopkins, the mayor of the Silent City, the leader of all those who lived in the rows of huts that ran along the Lehigh Valley tracks and on down the lakeside.

Uncouth and ignorant were Jeremiah and his kind, and visitors who came to the little city of Ithaca agreed with the town's inhabitants that it was a shame the law allowed such a blot as the Silent City upon the natural beauty of Cayuga and its majestic surroundings.

Pollyop stood shivering, her troubled gaze searching the lake for a boat. Daddy Hopkins had gone away early with Wee Jerry, and she always worried a little when they were out. Yet she knew that the only way to get the bread, beans and bacon for the family was for Daddy Hopkins to defy the law and drag his nets whenever the game wardens were not about. Without the lake and its hidden food, it would be a desolate world indeed.

Wee Jerry was Polly's five-year-old brother, and long before he could walk, he had chosen his father's big shoulders upon which to beat his way through an unfriendly and often hungry world. But this same world which had wizened Jerry had given to Polly a wild beauty, a body strong and as pliant as a marsh reed.

With a sigh Pollyop turned to the house. The door was shut against the storm, and a thin curl of smoke twisted upward from the toppling chimney, losing itself in the baby leaves of the willows. The little lines that had traced the troubled brow vanished at the sight of a slab of wood over the door. On it was painted in crude letters: "If your heart is loving and kind come right in. If it ain't, scout off." Pollyop and Granny Hope had worked a long time to make this sign, and even longer to nail it up.

"I'll help the Silent City folks, Granny," she had said. "Specially, if I smile a lot at 'em."

She flung open the door and went in, closing it behind her. In one corner of the kitchen, an old woman, so old that no squatter could remember her other than aged, sat near the stove. About her shoulders was a shawl, and its edges were held together with clawlike fingers.

Munching on a bit of hay at the wood-box was a lean goat, an old friend of Polly Hopkins. Long ago she had found him, lost in the wilderness of the Storm country, and had brought him to the Silent City.

The shanty consisted of three rooms. Back of the kitchen Daddy Hopkins slept, and in the miserable cupboard where Polly had once stored rubbish Granny Hope stretched out her weary bones at night. Polly's bed ranged the kitchen wall, and the room had but a bench, two old chairs and a three-legged table to offer in rude hospitality.

"I wheedled a little milk from Oscar, Granny," said the girl. "Goddy, but he's gettin' stingy!"

She put down the pail, went to the stove and thrust a piece of wood into it.

"Wood's as wet as hell," she complained, almost as if she had spoken to herself.

The old woman stirred and lifted her withered lids.

"Hell ain't wet," she muttered. "It's dry an' warm—hot, I mean," and she shivered, drawing nearer the fire. "Tain't like this lakside."

Granny Hope had been in the Hopkins' shack since the first winter snow. Her own hut stood on a little point about a quarter of a mile away. In it she had lived alone ever since her husband had gone down in the Big Blow, a storm that was a tradition in the settlement, and which only the oldest inhabitants of the Silent City could remember.

The expression "the fourth estate," referring to newspaper workers, is credited to Edmund Burke, who is quoted in Thomas Carlyle's fifth lecture on "Heroes and Hero Worship" as saying: "There are three estates in parliament, but in the reporters' gallery yonder there sits a fourth estate, more important far than they all." This was in 1839. In this country where class distinctions are not made politically little ever is heard of the three estates—the nobility, the clergy and the people—but the term "fourth estate" is comparatively common.

MAY FAVOR WHITE

Paris Sets Style for Spring and Summer of 1922.

Color Chosen for Backgrounds of Printed Designs Applied to Silks or Embroidered Figures.

All authorities are agreed that white is to make an excellent showing during the spring and summer seasons of 1922, as there is an international movement in that direction. At several of the spring racing meets in France, attended by the well-dressed women of many nations attired in the latest creation of Parisian dressmakers, white stood out prominently among the most smartly dressed, says Dry Goods Economist. And after the spring racing meets were finished and pleasure seekers left for the leading seashore resorts, it was noticeable that white was prominent in the expensive wardrobes of Parisian women.

Accordingly, we see white chosen for the backgrounds of printed designs applied to silks, or embroidered figures carried out in ornate fashion to light up white grounds.

This was expected. As every one knows, black overshadows all colors in popularity, both for dress and for millinery purposes. Naturally, black brought into prominence striking contrasts evidenced by the adoption of each of the primary colors of blue, red and yellow for combination with black.

But for a striking combination with black, white knocks all colors out in the first round. At the spring racing

DRESS SUIT LIKE MOTHER'S

This is a dress that will gladden the heart of a little girl. It is of jade green duvetyn over a slip of pearl gray crepe de chine. The tightly-buttoned cuffs and the high collar are sure to make the little miss feel grown up.

SWEATERS AND SKIRTS AGAIN

Combination Affords One of the Simplest and Most Convenient Forms of Attire.

Since the war, dressing at winter resorts has been very much simplified. One changes once, or, at the most, twice during the day, not five times. The dress worn in the morning will go through the afternoon—right up to the dinner hour.

Sweaters and skirts are a uniform—the accordion-plaited silk skirt with a frilled batiste blouse and a thin, contrasting sweater. The hat, the blouse, and the sweater are all of the simplest, depending upon a dash of color for their visibility rather than on any intricacy of line or elaboration of trimming. For the dress that starts the day, the French handmade linen in pastel or bright colors, made with a kimono blouse and straight skirt with lines of drawn work (the most expensive dress in the world) has always the greatest popularity. Then come dotted swisses and glanzlans, always made so simply that it is a marvel how each year's crop can look new and different.

For the afternoon come organdies and those delicate lingerie gowns with insets of lace and eyelet work thrown into contrast by their black tulle foundations; gowns of crepe de chine and georgette crepe—always the same types of dresses, yet always with some little newness that dates them as this year's dresses look just a little old-fashioned. Last Palm Beach summer the sleeves were still short, the waistline normal, the belt conspicuous, the hem straight, the neckline varied. This year almost every dress will have a pair of long, loose sleeves that will share with the grille the responsibility of giving color and character to the gown; the short sleeve is, for the moment, passe even for summer, even on evening gowns. One wears enormous sleeves or none at all—Harper's Pazar.

Poppy Red.

Poppy red is becoming a favorite color for modish blouses. Such blouses may be worn over a slip of self-color or black.

Basque Waist and Bouffant Skirt.

meets in France there were several combinations of white and black, white predominating.

Next to black, bright colors, especially reds, afford excellent combinations with white, and the two other primaries of blue and yellow follow in the order of appropriateness for combination with white.

Similarly, the secondaries (that is, the combination of two primaries resulting in purple—green and orange—have been chosen by many designers for combination with white, especially in the form of motifs for the decoration of white grounds.

Ostrich Parasols.

Ostrich is used either to cover or elaborately trim some of the smartest parasols now being offered for Southern resorts wear, matching sets of hat and parasol.

PASTEL SHADES ARE REVIVED

Faded and China Blues and Coral and Jet Beads for Trimming Are Featured.

After an absence of several years, during which primary pigment colors of blue, red and yellow and derivations therefrom have held the center of the color stage, pastel colors are to be restored to favor, according to cables from the Dry Goods Economist's Paris office.

We are told that no less a French authority than Worth is pushing faded and China blues for both day and evening wear, and featuring coral and jet beads for trimmings, instead of vivid colors, which is against all law and evidence. Brilliant colors are staple for evening wear.

It is said that Lanvin is advocating pastel blues for both day and evening wear, and it is now common knowledge that Madeleine & Madeleine have adopted a dull greenish blue for all their spring models.

Jenny has adopted forget-me-not blue and raspberry reds for tiffets and for crepe de chine. And from other French sources comes reliable information that pastel colors are gaining ground.

Ample evidence that Paris is not alone in adopting pastel colors is presented in the action of leading dressmakers in New York, who have taken up military blues, that is, gray blues, for cape suits, and, in addition, favor pastel colors for capes and dresses made of broadcloth.

That the adoption of pastel colors is not confined to dressmakers is seen in the taking up of such soft shades

Combine Plaid and Rough Weaves.

Fabric and color combinations are all important in the development of children's clothes, both in dresses and wraps. A coat and cap outfit has a straight line coat of plain color rough weave material, with cap and scarf of a bright tartan plaid. The scarf is fringed at the ends, and was long enough to tie entirely around the figure, with ends swinging either at side or back. The whole outfit was picturesque for a cold, snowy day.

Blouses for Spring.

Fine batistes and organdies are chiefly offered in lingerie styles, and these blouses tuck in at the waist. For these waists one hears of American demands for the flat Peter Pan collar, but most of the blouses have the standard roll collar. Pin tucking plays an important part, as does faceting; and there continues to be use of color for tiny insets and collar and cuff borders.

Early Spring Style.

The three-piece costume promises to be an early spring favorite, a number of these styles having been developed for Southern resort wear. One recently seen featured a frock with a low waistline, topped by a square-cut 30-inch long coat, which was fastened at the neck only. The material used was dahlia colored duvetyn, with touches of embroidery in black at the trimmings.

HELD FOR MURDER

Regarding the charges against J. J. Flannery, a wealthy Pittsburg, who figured in an auto wreck in a $12,000 McFarland car on the Lincoln Highway near New Oxford last summer, and who is now under arrest in Pittsburg on the charge of killing his wife, a news patch from Pittsburg says: "The coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. J. J. Flannery, who was shot and killed in her home by her husband, Feb. 13, returned a verdict death due to wounds inflicted by Flannery and recommended he be held for the grand jury on a charge of murder."

"Flannery, who is 28, four years older than his wife, says he thought he saw the form of a man in his bedroom on the morning of the shooting and discharged his revolver at the supposed burglar. He immediately ascertained he had shot his wife and called the family physician, also notifying the police."

"Officials say the shooting was not accidental, but Mrs. Flannery and her husband had been on unfriendly terms for three years and the wife had consulted attorneys for the purpose of obtaining a legal separation, which Flannery resented."

"The district attorney, Harry C. Rowand, sought to establish Flannery shot his wife deliberately, presumably following a quarrel. The commonwealth tried to discredit Flannery's account he was sleeping when he heard a noise, which he believed to be a burglar."

"Testimony produced showed Flannery arrived on a street car within 200 feet of his home at 1:25 o'clock and that at 1:30 o'clock was talking over the telephone to Miss Inez Wallis, daughter of Dr. W. W. Wallis, who was summoned by Flannery after he had shot his wife."

"It was the commonwealth's aim to prove he could not get to his home, undress and be in bed in five minutes after alighting from the street car which had carried him from the Elks club."

It has developed that the state has no intention to build a water bound macadam road from Frankintown to East Berlin. It is to be an "unbound" road, the engineer explaining that the first year about $2,000 a mile is required in the building of such a road, giving it the "once over"; the second year about the same amount; then comes the final treatment, a gradual building up of a road that when completed will have cost about seven or eight thousand dollars a mile. The road is treated with oil. After it is built the state maintains it. Maintenance of costs are higher than in a water bound road.

Samuel Boring, 32 years old, York, who attempted Monday morning to commit suicide, was taken to the state hospital for the insane, at Harrisburg. He was reported in a violent condition. The man, melancholy because of ill health and the death of his wife more than a year ago, Monday morning tried to hang himself. He has a daughter, Violet, five years old, and was found by her on the third floor of the Stener home dangling from a strap suspended from a rafter. The child screamed and at the same instant the strap tore and the man fell to the floor.

COLLECTOR SMARSH RESIGNS

V. J. Smarsh, deputy revenue collector stationed in Gettysburg for more than three years, has resigned his position taking effect yesterday. Announcement of the acceptance of Mr. Smarsh's resignation just at this time when income tax returns are being made came as a surprise here. When the new collector of internal revenue, Blakely D. McCaughy, took his office several months ago, Mr. Smarsh sent in his resignation to be accepted "at the will and discretion" of the collector. No successor to Mr. Smarsh has been named so far as is known here and the office of the collector in the Gettysburg postoffice building has been closed. For the present Mr. Smarsh will assist in making out income tax returns as a private adviser. After the income tax period Mr. Smarsh will give his entire time to selling life insurance.

Those perfect in attendance during the month of February at Clear View school, Oxford township, were: Ethel Alwine, Ruth Eckert, Elizabeth and Effie Garrett, Ivy Myers, Alma and Viola Sheely, Margaret Wolf, Ethel Shellenberger, Arthur and Philip Alwine, Alvin and Mervin Becker, Lloyd Eckert, Frank Eicholtz, George Garrett, Raymond Geisler, Rufus Haverstick, Raymond Herman, Ralph Kling, James Myers, John Spangler, Charles Wolf, and Arthur Yeagy. Olive E. Orner, teacher.

An Atlantic oil truck became impeded so deeply in a gutter near the residence of Frank Eicholtz, east of town, one day recently, that another truck had to be called from Gettysburg to render first aid.

The report that J. P. Hoffman, Prudential Ins. agent, had bought the residence of T. E. Warner on Lincoln Way, East, occupied by Jos. Sheely, is denied.

Spelling bee and box social at New Chester schoolhouse, Wednesday evening, March 8th. Proceeds for the Near East Relief. John M. Stitt, teacher.

The Immaculate Conception church choir will have its first rehearsal in Parochial hall Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Harry Miller, Carlisle street, entertained the members of the sewing circle Monday evening.

S. E. TRIMMER DROPT DEAD

Monday afternoon Samuel E. Trimmer, a prominent business man of Gettysburg dropped dead in his place of business, due to an attack of heart trouble which came over him suddenly as he was engaged in conversation with a traveling salesman and his son-in-law. Apparently Mr. Trimmer had been in his usual health and at the time that he was taken ill, had been talking about his favorite forms of recreation, hunting and fishing. Mr. Trimmer had never complained about his heart. He was 55 years, 4 months and 3 days old. Mr. Trimmer was the son of the late Jacob and Elizabeth Trimmer and was born near 700. He lived in this vicinity until 1910 when he moved to Gettysburg. While living in New Oxford, Mr. Trimmer was engaged in the buying and selling of antiques but upon moving to Gettysburg, he opened up the five and ten cent store and was the pioneer in that business in Adams county. Clyde Daly, son-in-law of Mr. Trimmer, has been manager of the store since 1917. About 35 years ago Mr. Trimmer married Elizabeth Gochenour, of York Springs, who preceded him in death two years ago last September. Mrs. Trimmer leaves three daughters, Mrs. Clyde Daly, Mrs. Harry Hance and Miss Evelyn Trimmer, Gettysburg. Miss Trimmer has been attending Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore. Five brothers also survive: Jacob and Jonas, of Carlisle; Willis, of Shippensburg; Noah, of Litzitz, and Charles, of Sacramento, Calif.

RIGHT SHINBONE

His mind evidently intent on a pair of pretty eyes and a head of attractive hair, as only a Mt. Rock girl could have, Alphonsus Noel, West End butcher, is said to have sold a shin bone to a Mt. Misery customer, one day recently, with instructions to deliver said meat at said customer's home, and then to have deposited the unsuspecting shin bone on the back porch of an altogether different Mt. Misery residence. That business and staying up late at nights at Mt. Rock don't mix well is the advice Mt. Misery residents have given the local butcher.

The concert in Miller's hall on Saturday evening by the P. O. S. of A. band of Hanover, was according to predictions a grand success, the hall being crowded to capacity. The concert was of the first-class order. This band, which is under the direction of Prof. Eberle, of York, is one of the best musical organizations in southern Pennsylvania. The violin music rendered by Miss Mary Hamm a 12-year-old school girl, of Hanover was worthy of particular mention, receiving as a testimonial to her musical talent a hat collection amounting to $9.50.

Among the Hanover Senior class who hold the highest averages are Ruth Haar, George Nagle, Helen Sheely, Catherine Wehler and Ethel Snyder, of this vicinity. Earl Hershey, Hanover, has been named valedictorian, and Miss Eleanor Van Hise will deliver the salutatorian address at the Commencement exercises. All of the above students from this section will also speak at the Commencement exercises which will be held June 3.

PRISONER ESCAPED FROM SHERIFF IN DECEMBER; SHERIFF'S OFFICE SILENT

Edwin Hall, 20 years old, Binghampton, N. Y., sentenced for the theft of an automobile December 5 by Judge McPherson to serve not less than a year or more than 15 months in the Eastern Penitentiary, escaped from the Adams county jail some time between December 5 and December 19, according to information from authentic sources, says the Times.

No public announcement of the escape of Howell has been made by the authorities at the jail and an informal investigation that has been conducted has failed to reveal definitely the exact time of the jail delivery. Deputy Sheriff Howard Hartman when asked about the escape of Howell preferred to say nothing about it. There is slight hope that the prisoner may be apprehended.

The report of the sheriff made last week to the county auditors showed that board was charged for Howell up to December 19 according to the auditors. Unofficial investigations made by other county officers indicate, however, the escape took place either December 11 or 12. Delay in taking the prisoner to the penitentiary was caused, it is said, by illness of Sheriff Hartman.

Howell is supposed to have escaped in the early evening and in the absence of a statement of fact from the sheriff's office rumors are now current as to how the delivery was effected. It is known, however, that no violence was used by Howell in getting away.

Howell was arrested November 6, 1921, after an exciting chase to the outskirts of Littlestown where he abandoned the car he had stolen in Gettysburg and ran for a corn field. During the chase five shots were fired at the car by the owner, Harry Snyder, and his father Willis Snyder, as it passed through Two Taverns. He pleaded guilty. The report of doctors at the time disclosed that his physical condition was not seriously impaired, as was claimed.

The question naturally arises. What have been conditions at the county jail to permit a penitentiary sentenced criminal to make a clean get away? One rumor has it that Howell was connected with a ring of bootleggers and was met by friends after he left the jail. What will be done about the matter?

FORMER RESIDENT WRITES

The Item last week received a letter from Christian B. Biggle, now located at Waterloo, Iowa, in which he states that owing to an accident in which he had both his legs broken, he has been confined to his home since last September. Mr. Biggle was born and reared in the home now occupied by Geo. D. Sheely and family, south-east of New Oxford, but when a boy of 16 years of age, in 1872, with his parents, one brother, Herman Biggle, and one sister Amelia, he moved to Iowa, where the family has resided most of these years, and little or no tidings have been received here of them in the past 50 years. The father died in 1884 at the age of 83, and the mother in 1912 at the age of 97. Herman is now located in Tacoma, Wash., and Amelia at Spokane, Wash. Mr. Biggle speaks of the Sheely boys and girls, Feisers, Emmerts, and others as former schoolmates, and would be very much gratified to hear from any of his former comrades yet living.

KUMP HELD WITHOUT BAIL

Child-like innocence and pathos mingled at the preliminary hearing Tuesday afternoon in the Adams county jail when Stella May Kump, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Kump, Hamiltonban township, took the stand as witness against Oliver Kump, aged 20, the man who signed a statement confessing to a criminal assault on the little girl after his arrest last Tuesday. Kump was held without bail to await the action of the grand jury in April, at the conclusion of the hearing. A mere wisp of a girl, she wrung her hands nervously as she nodded or shook her head in answer to questions. At times the mother wept. The little girl identified Oliver Kump several times.

With both his clerks "under the weather" on Thursday, J. F. Sanders, Center Square grocer, was prevented from moving to his new residence on North Peters street, that day. Mr. Sanders had fully intended to move and the Item's mistake in announcing the "fitting" was caused by force of circumstances. Mr. Sanders is now undecided as to when he can occupy his new residence.

"Dangerous Curve Ahead", said to be a highly entertaining movie, will be shown in the Crystal theatre, this place on Friday and Saturday evenings, March 24th and 25th, for the benefit of Theo. Pfeiffer Camp 60 S. of V. The community is urged to lend the Sons due support and at the same time get a good picture for their money.

OCTOGENARIANS LIVE 60 YEARS IN HOUSE

—Courtesy Gazette and

MR. AND MRS. J. FRANK HOUCK
The above pair, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Houck, Heldersburg, have lived continuously in the vicinity of their birth for four score years, and their married life or nearly 60 in the same homestead. Recent family reunion was celebrated at home which brought their eight children, and their children and grandchildren, home, to the number of 36 in spite of their age. Mr. Houck is 86 years, and his wife over 81. Both enjoy fairly good health, especially Mr. Houck's vision, which is seriously impaired. Mr. Houck is postmaster, justice of the peace, school teacher, in the little town where he has spent his life. His vice is often sought by residents that section in financial affairs. He is well and favorably known in all parts of the county in which he resides.

MARY GROVE GOCHENOUR

Mrs. Mary Gochenour died suddenly at the home of her brother, John Grove, Independence, Mo., at 7 a. m. on Wednesday, aged 74 years. Mrs. Gochenour was on her way from a visit to friends at Mt. Clair, N. J., to her home at San Diego, Calif., and was spending some time at the home of her brother, John Grove, where she was taken sick with pneumonia on Saturday and died the next day. The deceased was the daughter of the late Francis and Mary Grove, of Abottstown, and widow of the late Dr. David Gochenour, the latter for many years practicing his profession at Abottstown, prior to locating in San Diego. The band died about 15 years ago, and her body was disposed of by cremation. Mrs. Gochenour was also the request of Mrs. Mary Gochenour, that her body be cremated. The deceased is survived by two brothers, John Grove, residing at Independence, Mo., and William Grove, of Los Angeles, Calif., and one sister, Mrs. Susan Henry, of Mt. Clair, N. J. Mrs. Mary Feiser Grove, of Main avenue, is a sister-in-law of the deceased.

ACQUIRE LINCOLN MILL

A. C. Harvey & Co., of Philadelphia, have leased the Lincoln Flour Mill, Hanover street, from the D. W. D. Truck Co., of Philadelphia, along with the Buffalo Mill at Lewisburg. Mr. Harvey H. Potter, of Pleasant Grove, has been made manager of the mill. A quantity of Kansas wheat has been assigned to this place and the Lincoln-Buffer Flour Mill, Inc., the new company is known, and will have the mill running steadily sometime. A fair share of the mill patronage is solicited.

PINES PASTOR RESIGNS

The Rev. L. G. Stauffer, pastor of the Pines Lutheran charge for the past four years, has resigned to take effect on March 15th. The Rev. Stauffer will occupy one of his houses in York. He will have public sale of personal property on March 11th at his home at New Chester. The charge will be served temporarily by a supply minister. For the present Mr. Stauffer will devote his time to business. He may take another charge later.

Well filled houses each night lately enjoyed "The Old Nest" which was shown in the Crystal theatre on Friday and Saturday evenings. Words of praise were heard on all sides and Mr. Felty, the manager, is so pleased with the support accorded that he will endeavor to bring other feature pictures here from time to time.

Youngsters are said to have thrown over one of the small urns in Center Square on Monday, causing some damage. An effort will be made to collect, it is reported. Prompt action in early spring in looking after the town's beautiful square will mean much trouble saved when summer arrives.

Our Second Letter To The Public:

Three months of our closing-out sale have now gone by and with very many thanks to you it has been a great success. We disposed of a great many goods, but we find we have a great many still to sell, and as we only have three more months before we must vacate our room, we must get busy. From this time on we will discontinue the giving of a discount, but will give you wonderfully low net cash prices. We'll name a few of them:

Best Calicoes.....	15c
Best Percales.....	22c
Best Outing Flannels.....	30c
Best Heavy Shirtings.....	30c
Best Dress Gingham.....	30c and 35c
Real Lancaster Apron Gingham.....	15c
Good Apron Gingham.....	12 1-2c

Our SHOE STOCK is still very large and we will sell you good honest shoes very much less than market prices.

We also have quite a stock of Ladies' and Men's Low Cut Shoes in black and brown leather, and white canvas. These we sell at Half Price and less. Better anticipate your wants for next Summer—it will pay you big.

Our RUBBER STOCK is still in very good shape and we will sell you strictly first quality goods at very much less than market prices.

In conclusion, all we want to say is this: Come in to see us and if we still have what you want, we feel sure we will sell it to you at much less than you can buy it elsewhere.

Again thanking you,

Yours very truly,

SHEELY & BRO.,

New Oxford, Pa.

P. S.—You will be surprised to see what a splendid line of Men's, Boys' and Children's Clothing we still have, and the remarkable low prices we will give you on it. Ask to see it.

WHERE IS LARGEST TREE?

Where is the largest tree in Adams County? is the question the State Department of Forestry would like to have answered. The Department has started an inquiry to obtain facts about the largest tree in each county, and also a list of the unique and historic trees in the Commonwealth. The campaign to locate these trees—up soul, stands up in the power of trees will be asked to send in data to the Department.

Hanover Council decided at a meeting Friday night, to investigate a budget system, with a view to instituting it. The borough tax rate was fixed at 14 mills, 10 for general purposes, and 4 for the sinking fund. As about 10,000 is still outstanding on the accounts of paving it was decided to give a 10-days notice to all property holders, to settle. After that time liens will be filed against the properties.

To be elected second term in a mail: quartet out of nearly 6,000 students, is an honor that recently came to E. Max Darone, a student of the University of Pittsburgh, and son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Darone, Esq., Berlin.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1921.

HERE AND THERE

Frederick, young son of Charles R. Altland, of Abbottstown, fell down a hay-hole in a barn on the farm of Reuben Altland, near that place, on Saturday during a public sale. The young man was considerably dazed and was rendered unconscious for a time. He appears to be none the worse for his experience at this time.

Chas. D. Laughman is preparing to build a new barn on the farm tenanted by Paul Leas, at Victory. He expects the saw mill in the near future. John M. Wolf, Hanover, known as "Pennsylvania's oldest school teacher," will present to the state legislature a petition, bearing the signatures of numerous friends and former pupils, for a state pension. The venerable school teacher is 89 years of age, and had retired before the present teachers' pension law had gone into effect. Mr. Wolf formerly taught school in what is now the Item building in New Oxford.

Get your sale bills and cards printed at the ITEM office—nearest work and prices reasonable.

Congressman E. S. Brooks has ready for distribution, he announces, a supply of vegetable seeds put out by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Readers of this newspaper will be able to get seed by calling at, or addressing the Congressional office in York. Unfortunately a reduced allotment will not permit him to supply every school as he did last year. The Congressman's allotment includes popular garden varieties, but he will not be able to furnish any other than the assortment allotted him. He has also free bulletins giving instructions for successful gardening. Mr. Brooks will be able to supply a very limited number of requests for trial plantings of alfalfa, soybeans, or Sudan grass. Only one variety can be supplied to an applicant.

Marsden, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Emig, East Berlin, had an ugly gash cut in his left hand by a feed cutter. Several stitches were required to close the gash.

DRY LAW VIOLATORS'

HEARING ON FEB. 24

Howard Lowell, U. S. commissioner at Lancaster, has ruled that he does not have jurisdiction in the cases against John Shultz, J. Herman Bream, Raymond Miller and Mender Williams, all of Gettysburg, and James Cain, of Philadelphia, growing out of the recent confiscation there of 19 cases of whiskey. Commissioner Lowell has ordered that they appear before U. S. Commissioner Robert E. Wible in Gettysburg, and the date has been set for February 24. The bail of $500 was furnished in every instance. The liquor was seized early on the morning of January 21, in the alley in the rear of Bream's garage. The truck was taken with the liquor. Cain and Shultz appeared in Lancaster the next day and entered bonds of $500 each for their appearance at a hearing. Bream, Miller and Williams, claimed that they were not implicated in the case, and their counsel, J. L. Williams, Esq., gave his pledge that they would appear. This action of Commissioner Lowell substantiates the belief that Gettysburg, situated in the central prohibition enforcement district, is the proper place to hear all cases of alleged violation of the Volstead Act occurring within the boundaries of this county. Local people were at a loss to know why the confiscated liquor was taken to Lancaster and why the hearing was set for that city instead of being held at Gettysburg.

Attorney Williams, Tuesday received official release papers for the Standard truck of J. Herman Bream, Gettysburg, which was seized by the state troopers when they confiscated liquor in the Bream garage, last month. Evidence at the hearing proved no liquor was found on it. The case against the men may also be dropt.

The roads in this section are in a deplorable condition.

With a gaping wound in his head, a revolver lying under him and his automobile, watch, overcoat and money missing, Garfield Miller, 28, a taxi driver of Hagerstown, was found dead in a ditch along a road.

S. S. Mehrling, of Littlestown, is spending some time with his son, Dr. J. W. Mehrling, in St. Petersburg, Fla. New Oxford's tax rate this year is 11 mills, as compared with 12½ mills last year.

The Gettysburg throwing plant of the Eagle Silk company is confronted with a labor shortage. About 85 men and women are employed, but it is impossible with them to get out the amount of material asked for by the main plant at Shamokin and the management is not able to get other hands. Every indication points to the factory running at full capacity for many weeks to come.

Several of the fruit growers of Adams county won awards at the farm products show held at Harrisburg last week. Harry M. Keller and Sons, of Arendtsville, won first for the best barrels of Staymen Winesap and York Imperial, and the Elevation Orchards company second in York Imperial. In the second class, which called for exhibits of three barrels of any three varieties, L. L. Dear-dorf, Gettysburg, was first and the Keller orchards second. In the third class, for the best collection of five barrels of any commercial variety, the Keller firm was again the winner, exhibiting Staymens.

Elmer Yeagy is erecting a new house in York Springs.

Wm. Miller, of near Rock Chapel, has purchased the old log house on the Kennedy property, Central Huntington, from Isaac Tange at private sale. The house was an old log structure and was erected 150 years ago.

The Merdinger Contracting Co. has rented the former undertaking shop of Anthony Deardorff in York Springs and will use both floors of the building for offices this coming spring.

John W. Grim, Abbottstown, recently purchased a new Eclipse engine of the Frick Co., Waynesboro.

School directors of Adams county will meet at the Court House February 17 and 18 for their regular annual meeting. Superintendent of schools H. Milton Roth has announced. Arrangements for entertainment and prominent speakers are now being made by the executive committee of the organization. Special entertainment features will be provided on the evening of February 17 and a joint meeting of the directors and those attending the Adams County Farm Bureau meeting will be held in the afternoon of February 18th.

D. Layden and M. Richardson, Kokomo, Ind., were arrested in Gettysburg Tuesday by state troopers on suspicion of having stolen a Ford touring car which was abandoned near Cash-town with a broken steering gear. The car is the property of Solomon Hancock, Shippensburg. The men who were besmeared with mud, told conflicting stories, from driving their own machine to riding to Gettysburg from York in a taxi. They claim to be magazine salesmen for a St. Louis firm. At the end of a thorough cross examination by Sergeant Merrifield, Dallas Layden, 17 years old, confessed that he and his companion stole the auto. The case will come up in Franklin county.

In his story of the theft young Layden said that he and his partner "struck hard luck and landed in Shippensburg broke." There they decided they wanted to get to Gettysburg and having no money for carfare managed to get hold of the Ford touring car

DEATHS

Harper Bupp, the 23-year-old boy who was shot and killed recently in San Antonio, Tex., was buried Thursday in the New Oxford cemetery. The Rev. W. M. Allison, pastor of the Lutheran church, conducted brief services at the grave. His companion is now in the Robert Green hospital, shot in the lung and is dying, says a report from San Antonio.

Daniel Colestock, a Civil War telegrapher and for nearly 40 years a resident and prominent business man of Titusville, died suddenly at his residence, there on Jan. 18th, following a brief illness with an acute attack of dilation of the heart. He was born at East Rochester, O., on Sept. 29, 1843, and was a staunch Republican. His wife survives him. He was the youngest of a family of eleven children, only one of whom, Rev. Zephaniah A. Colestock of Quincy, the eldest of the family, survives at the age of 97 years. He was an uncle of the late Geo. L. Colestock, of near town.

William J. Bankert, of Germany township, near Littlestown, died Tuesday afternoon at the General Hospital, Baltimore, from the effects of an operation which he underwent two weeks ago for gall stones. He was aged 62 years. He is survived by his wife, and three sons and one daughter, Herbert and William Yingling, Littlestown. One brother and one sister, also survive. The funeral will be held Saturday morning at Littlestown.

Miss Jane Pisle, aged 65, of near Bendersville, died Monday at the county home. A sister, Mrs. Harry Taylor, of near Aspers, survives Miss Pisle, who was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hezekiah Pisle, of Mellen township.

Mrs. Margaret Pfeffer died Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Angel, residing along the Carlisle pike near Hanover. She was aged 81 years. Death was the result of a complication of diseases. Mrs. Pfeffer is survived by one daughter and two sons: Mrs. Charles Angel, of Hanover, with whom she resided; and John and Charles Pfeffer, Littlestown. The funeral was held Wednesday at Littlestown.

Friday night J. Emory Currans, of Baltimore, died in the Franklin Square hospital, that city. Mr. Currans, 42 years of age, formerly lived between Gettysburg and Fairfield. He is survived by a wife and 7 children.

The burial of Mary Maturi Stall-smith was made in the New Oxford cemetery and not in Mt. Olivet cemetery, Hanover, as erroneously published last week.

Wm. N. Starner died at the home of his niece, Mrs. Lewis Rchstone, in Hanover, Sunday evening from a complication of diseases, aged 69 years.

Dr. Harry M. Stephens, a member of Dickinson College, faculty, Carlisle, died from sleeping sickness. He had been ill for several weeks.

Mrs. Matilda Barr, aged 75, widow of the late J. S. Barr, died in Guernsey, from the effects of a stroke of apoplexy Sunday morning in the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. L. Rouzer, with whom she lived. She is survived by the following children: Mrs. Willis Rouzer, Hanover; Albert Barr, York; Clayton Barr, Gettysburg; Howard Barr, Hagerstown; Mrs. H. L. Rouzer, Guernsey; Miss Luella Barr, Hanover, and one brother, Amos Miller, Littlestown.

Thirteen priests were in the sanctuary of St. Mary's church, McSherrystown, at a Solemn High Mass said at the funeral of Mrs. Geo. W. Steffy, on Wednesday. The church was filled with friends, the school children attending in a body. The woman was highly esteemed in the community.

Franklin M. Leese, Hanover for many years a cooper by trade, died at his home Saturday evening, from a complication of diseases, after a few days' illness, aged 72 years. His wife died several months ago. Surviving him are 7 children; also a brother.

Anna K. Dome, widow of William Dome, died Saturday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John J. Seigfried, in Hanover, from infirmities, aged 84 years. She is survived by one daughter and two sons, Geo. K. Martz, near Brushstown, and Henry K. Martz, Hanover.

Hiram L. Witherow died at his home in Hanover, Jan. 21, aged 56 years. He leaves a wife, 3 sons, 3 brothers and 6 sisters, one of the latter being Mrs. Agnes Philips, of Littlestown.

Mrs. Helena Keith Hafer, of Gettysburg, died on Thursday from heart trouble at Lynn Haven, Florida. Mrs.

HOSPITAL PATIENTS.

Mrs. L. V. Straley, who has been ill for some time and who was taken to a hospital in Baltimore for an X-ray examination, has returned home. She will undergo further treatment later.

Mrs. W. S. Jacobs, of near Salem church, formerly of near Round Hill, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis at the West Side sanatorium, York, Jan. 13th, was brought to her home by her husband on Monday afternoon.

Miss Brenda Badders, of Littlestown, is convalescing at the Church Home Hospital, Baltimore.

Mrs. William H. Emlet of Hanover, has been admitted to the West Side sanatorium, York, as a surgical patient.

Frank W. Hoopes, a former supervisor of Washington township, left for Baltimore to undergo an operation for a tumor, from which he has been suffering for some time.

Mrs. J. H. Myers, Brushstown, who was brought home from the Church Home Infirmary, Baltimore, two weeks ago, continues to improve.

Clayton Hartman, son of Charles B. Hartman, who lives south of Gettysburg, was operated on successfully for appendicitis Thursday in the Harrisburg hospital.

John Wright has returned to his home in Gettysburg from a York hospital where he recently underwent an operation.

W. P. Lindemuth, of Littlestown, who several months ago underwent an operation at the General Hospital, at Lancaster, returned home Wednesday much improved.

Ernest Milley, York Springs, has returned home from Carlisle Hospital where he had an operation performed.

Cletus Bosserman, of Huntington township, accompanied his daughter, Romaine, to Baltimore, one day recently, where she underwent an operation for her eyes.

Mrs. C. S. Hildebrand, Littlestown, is a patient at the West Side sanatorium, York.

YORK WOMAN A SUICIDE

While her husband was assisting in baking the day's supply of pies in the kitchen at the "Z" restaurant, York, about 3 o'clock on Wednesday morning, Mrs. Reba M. Zimmerman, wife of G. Cleveland Zimmerman, proprietor of the establishment, fired a shot into her head which resulted in her death less than two hours later. The motive for Mrs. Zimmerman's act is a mystery to the family. The dead woman, who was 27 years old leaves, besides her husband, two small children.

Signs have been ordered which will restrict the speed of automobiles in Gettysburg to 15 miles an hour within the borough. The action followed several serious accidents on the streets of that town.

The consistory of the Abbottstown Reformed congregation met at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Clair J. Meckley, Hamilton township, Thursday evening.

Hafer and her young son, William, left for the South several weeks ago accompanied by Mrs. George Crowe and a nurse. She had proposed to rent a bungalow at Lynn Haven for the winter season. Mrs. Hafer has been subject to heart attacks periodically and was seized with one of these attacks a few days previous. She has lived the greater part of her life in Gettysburg and about ten years ago was married to W. Laverne Hafer. She is survived by her young son, William Hafer, by her mother, Mrs. Helen Keith, of Gettysburg; one brother, John D. Keith, Esq., of Gettysburg, and two sisters. Interment was made in the New Oxford cemetery on Tuesday.

Harvey Beard died at his home in Gettysburg on Friday morning following a stroke of apoplexy which he suffered on Monday week. Mr. Beard was aged about 65 years and has been living in Gettysburg for the past five years. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Everett Heintzelman, of Orrtanna.

Mrs. Angeline Harbold died at the home of her daughter, Geo. C. Lerew, York Springs, Saturday week, aged 87 years. Mrs. Harbold had been blind and in failing health for several years. She leaves her husband, Daniel Harbold, of Gettysburg, and one daughter, Mrs. Lerew.

Miss Grace Musselman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Grant Musselman, formerly of Fairfield, died at their home in Rochelle, Ill., Jan. 25th, at the age of 25 years. Altho she had been complaining all winter her death was unexpected.

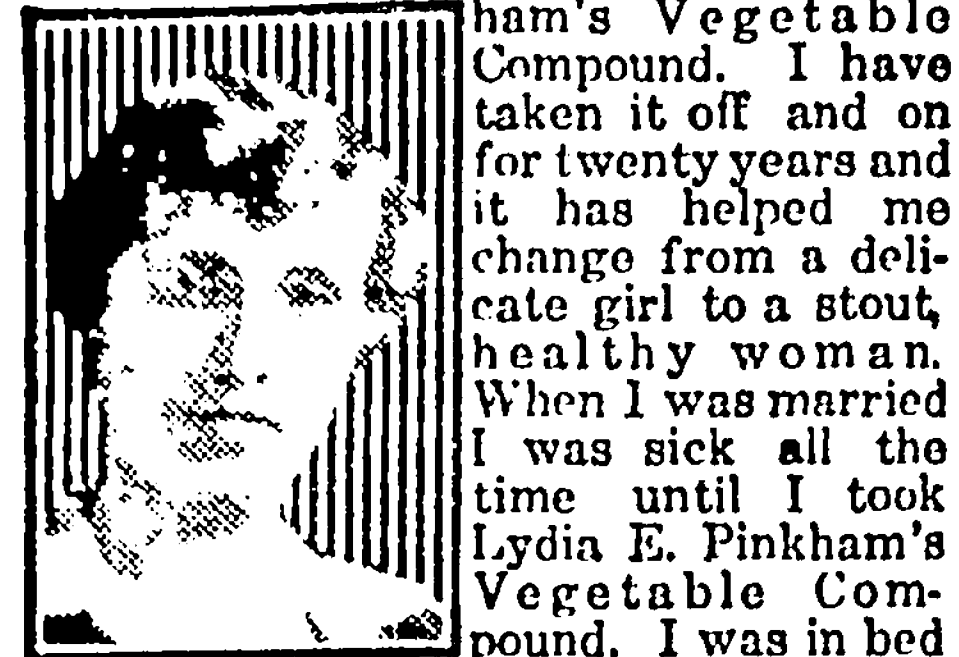

Dr. W. H. H. McIlvaine a leading physician at Kenton, Ohio, recently died there. He was a native of Adams county, a son of the late James H. and Lavina J. McIlvaine, of Greenmount. He was born in 1842. In 1854 the family moved to Mansfield, Ohio. He attended Asbury University several years, until he enlisted in Gen. Law Wallace's Regiment, served three years in the Civil War, participating in a number of battles and was honorably discharged in 1864, and taking up the study of medicine graduated from the Cleveland Medical College in 1870. He practiced at Ontario and Shelby, Ohio, and located in 1882 at Kenton, where he continued to practice medicine until his death. He leaves a widow and three sisters, Mrs. Clinton A. Cashman, of New Oxford, Mrs. Margaret Wilt, of Littlestown, and Mrs. Emma J. Riegle, of Greenmount.

Not long before his death Dr. McIlvaine wrote his own biography.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable
Compound

Los Angeles, Calif.—"I must tell you that I am a true friend to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken it off and on for twenty years and it has helped me change from a delicate girl to a stout, healthy woman. When I was married I was sick all the time until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in bed much of my time with pains and had to have the doctor every month. One day I found a little book in my yard in Guthrie, Oklahoma, and I read it through and got the medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and took eight bottles and used the Sanative Wash. I at once began to get stronger. I have got many women to take it just by telling them what it has done for me. I have a young sister whom it has helped in the same way it helped me. I want you to know that I am a 'friend indeed, for you were a friend in need.'"—Mrs. GEORGE HARDEE, 1043 Byram St., Los Angeles, California.

Let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound be a 'friend indeed' to you.

"Isn't it queer that Methuselah lived to be 969 years old, and many other men lived to be very aged in Bible times, without a woman living to be that old?"
"It isn't a bit queer. It merely shows that women were the same then as now. What woman would ever confess to being a thousand years old?"

Have Backache?

If you're Nervous, Run-down, Tired, these are Symptoms which Need Not Be. Read what Mrs. Franz says:

Baltimore, Md.—"I was bloated nearly all the time, had backache, and was nervous, run-down, tired and had no energy, but after I took one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I was feeling grand. Had a good appetite and didn't feel the least bit bloated. I also gained weight; I now weigh 175 pounds." Mrs. John P. Franz, 1808 Kuper St.
If you have the above-mentioned symptoms you should profit by Mrs. Franz's advice and get the Prescription from your druggist at once. Tablets and liquid.

HANGS SELF TO ESCAPE TAUNTS

16-Year-Old Boy, Paralyzed
From Babyhood, Hears
Last Gibe.

William Simkowitz Hangs Himself in Bathroom With Rope Fastened to Water Pipe—Mates Were
Cruel to Him.

New York.—William Simkowitz, the sixteen-year-old son of John Simkowitz of 81 Washington place, Passaic, N. J., hanged himself in the bathroom of his home because he could no longer endure the taunts and gibes of his playmates. He was a cripple and they had been cruel to him, laughing at him when he could not run and play with them, and they made fun of him because he was not able to go coasting and try out their new sleds. So he couldn't stand it any longer.

Young Simkowitz had been a cripple since he was a baby, when he suffered an attack of infantile paralysis that affected almost his whole right side, but particularly his right leg and foot. The disease left him with a limp which he could not hide, although all his life he had been trying to walk without it. But he couldn't. He couldn't be like the other boys; if they played baseball he had to keep score for them, or he had to watch them; if they played football he even had to keep away back from the sidelines, because he could not get out of their way.

Mimicked by Schoolboys.

He felt his affliction terribly. It hurt him all his life, this knowledge that he could not play and that he had to walk with a limp. It might not have been so bad if the other boys and girls had sympathized with him and helped him, but they didn't. They laughed at him and made fun of him. The boys at school mimicked him and paraded before him with an exaggerated limp, and the girls wouldn't go anywhere with him because he was a cripple, so when his schoolmates had a party or anything of that sort he either went alone or he did not go at all, because he knew that if he went he would be alone all evening or all afternoon. No one would play with him because he could not play; no one would even talk to him.

One afternoon his brothers and sisters went off to play games, crowds of other boys passed with their skates and sleds on their way to skate and coast.

Hears Last Taunts.

They didn't stop to ask him to go; even his own brothers did not ask him.

He had nothing to do but to read, and he had read so much that he hated the sight of a book. He wandered about the house, and in the kitchen he found a half-inch rope. He took this rope and went into the bathroom and, climbing on a chair, he tied an end of the rope about a water pipe and in the other end he fashioned a noose. Then he put the noose about his neck and kicked the chair from beneath him. An hour later his brother John came in and found him, but William was dead.

THIEF USES DOPED CIGARETTE

Fingerprints From Robbery
in Oklahoma.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—A doped cigarette was used to make an officer unconscious and permit a man to steal fingerprints that had been taken in connection with the robbing of a train. Physicians worked three hours to revive the officer.

"After lighting the cigarette he offered me, I talked a few minutes to the man," said the policeman. "I last remember seeing the stranger reaching for the prints and hearing him say, 'Well, I got you that time.'"

Sentenced for Cruelty to Hogs.

Duluth, Minn.—Because they denied food or water to their herd of hogs last autumn and allowed 75 of the animals to starve or be devoured by their companions, John Morgan has been sentenced to 80 days' hard labor, and his wife fined $100.

TO PUT OUT FIRE LET BAND PLAY

Oklahoma Scientist Advises Calling Symphony Orchestra Instead of Fire Department.

Kansas City, Mo.—When there is a big fire, find out the flame tone and call a symphony orchestra instead of the fire department.

Prof. Hinton I. Jones, chemistry head of the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college, demonstrated vibrations before the City club here. He let the audience hear a flame "sing" and then put it out by sound.

"Extinguishing a fire by sound is easy when the burning substance is known and when there is only one element, such as hydrogen," he said. "The flame is extinguished when its neutral-

Tattoo of "Mutt and Jeff" on Leg Betrayed Him as Impersonator, Bigamist, and Forger.

Philadelphia.—Having numerous wives, passing worthless checks, impersonating a naval officer, desertion from the navy, and obtaining money under false pretenses are a few of the charges against "Lieut. Harry Eades," alias Harry Moore Miller, alias Fred G. Hickman, arrested here a few days ago.

Pictures of "Mutt and Jeff" tattooed on the man's right leg led to his undoing. The Philadelphia authorities arrested him on the charge of impersonating an officer. He was in custody four days before it was learned he was the man Department of Justice agents all over the country were seeking. Eades was married in Norfolk, Va., December 4, where he posed as an heir to a large fortune. A few days later he deserted his bride in Baltimore, Md.

In Baltimore, Eades is accused of passing worthless checks and marrying another girl. He is accused of posing as a naval officer in Indianapolis and of marrying a girl in that city, and it is said he has other wives strewn along the path from Texas to Norfolk. He killed a man in Texas, according to a story told by his Norfolk wife. He is also charged with being a deserter from the navy, where he was an enlisted man.

Thug's Act Is Stopped by Engine Headlight

Uniontown, Pa.—The glaring headlight of an engine on the Pennsylvania railroad here thwarted an unidentified man, who, after throwing a rope around the neck of Mrs. Elizabeth Chambers, twenty-five, dragged her into a swamp. Mrs. Chambers had gone to the place to meet her husband.

Mrs. Chambers said she arrived first and was awaiting her husband, when a rope was thrown about her neck and drawn taut, and she was dragged toward the swamp.

Just before she lapsed into unconsciousness, Mrs. Chambers said, she saw the glaring headlight of an engine which had just rounded a curve. This evidently caused her assailant to flee, for she next remembers lying in the swamp with the rope still about her neck.

Woman, Hit by Train, Regains Mind

Topeka, Kan.—The shock of a train accident slowly is bringing back the reason of Mrs. Loretta Moore. She was sent to an asylum six months ago after murdering her daughter. She lost a hand and an eye when she was hit by the train, after she had escaped from the institution, but her sanity is returning, say physicians.

WESTERN CANADA Land of Prosperity

offers to home seekers opportunities that cannot be secured elsewhere. The thousands of farmers from the United States who have accepted Canada's generous offer to settle on FREE homesteads or buy farm land in her provinces have been well repaid by bountiful crops. There is still available on easy terms.

Fertile Land at $15 to $30 an Acre—land similar to that which through many years has yielded from 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre—oats, barley and flax also in great abundance, while raising horses, cattle, sheep and hogs is equally profitable. Hundreds of farmers in western Canada have raised crops in a single season worth more than the whole cost of their land. With such success comes prosperity, independence, good homes and all the comforts and conveniences which make life worth living.

Farm Gardens, Poultry, Dairying are sources of income second only to grain growing and stock raising. Attractive climate, good neighbors, churches, schools, good markets, railroad facilities, rural telephone, etc.

CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Your little one will love the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" even if constipated, bilious, irritable, feverish, or full of cold. A teaspoonful never fails to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the sour bile, and undigested food out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

People in a hurry will agree with you, anyway.

FOOLISH ADVICE

"Sorry, sir," telephoned the butcher, "but we are out of sirloin. Why don't your wife order you a round?"

"What's that?" exploded Harker, at the other end of the line.

"Why don't your wife order you a round?"

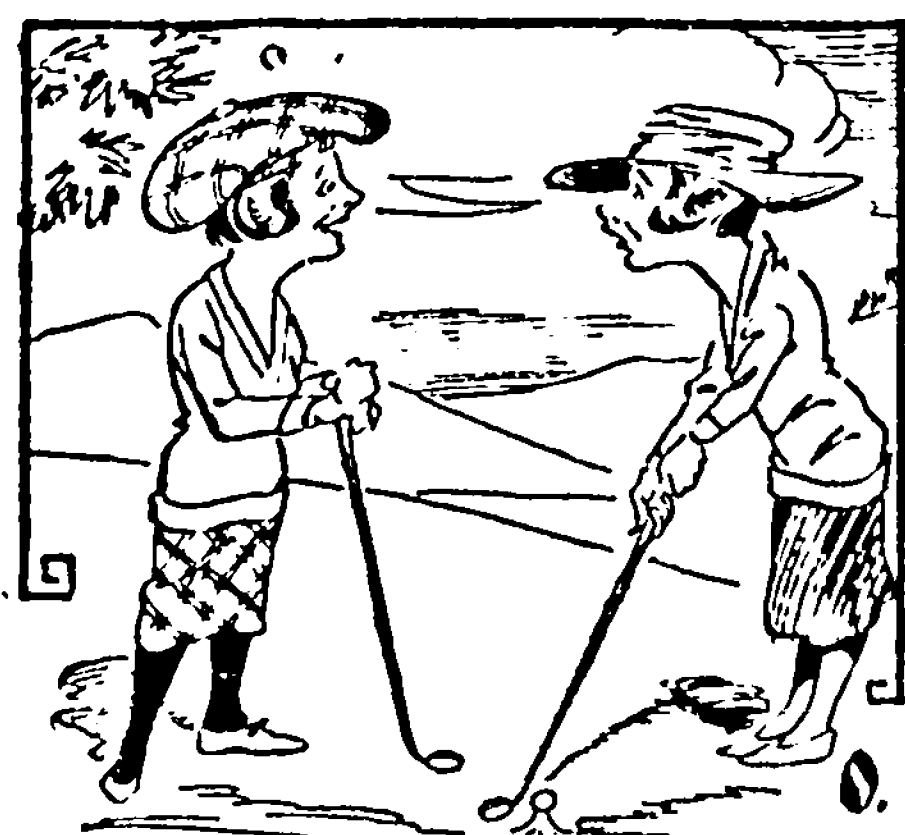

"Why don't my wife order me around? Man, that is all she does from morning until night! If you were nearer I'd—" But the startled butcher had hung up the receiver.

Even If—

The loving husband was about to start on a long journey. His young wife, a very modern type, stood disconsolately on the platform. The whistle blew. He gave her a last kiss.

"I'll write to you," he said, "from every place we stop at on the way."

"Yes, do," she said, "do, darling, even if it's only a check."

A MESSAGE TO TIRED, SICK FOLKS

Don't Drag Through Life Half Sick and Half Well. Take This Advice.

Go to your druggist and ask him for Gude's Pepto-Mangan and take it with your meals for a few weeks and see how your health improves.

If you are pale, tired, lack ambition and vigor, you know yourself that if you had plenty of red blood that you would not feel tired and half sick all the time. The only sure foundation of permanent health is good blood. Gude's Pepto-Mangan builds up your blood with a form of iron that gets into your system quickly. It is wonderful. You will like it and it will make you feel so well and strong. Life will be worth living again. Try it and you will thank us for telling you about it. Druggists sell Gude's Pepto-Mangan in both liquid and tablet form. Advertisement.

IN BUYING ASPIRIN ALWAYS SAY "BAYER"

Look for the Name "Bayer" on Tablets. Then You Need Never Worry.

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" can be taken safely for Colds, Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Joint Pains, Neuritis, and Pain generally.

To get quick relief follow carefully the safe and proper directions in each unbroken package of "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin." This package is plainly stamped with the safety "Bayer Cross." The "Bayer Cross" means the genuine, world-famous Aspirin prescribed by physicians for over twenty-one years.—Advertisement.

The new church will be founded on moral science. Poets, artists, musicians, philosophers, will be its prophets. The noblest literature of the world will be the Bible. The Heathen Come to Light.

A Wisconsin newspaper, the Boston Transcript says, reports the following: The young people here have a new game called "Christianity." Here is how they play it: The Christians, who are the girls, get on one side, and the boys on the other are the heathen; then the heathen cross over and embrace Christianity. It has become very popular.

Hundreds of Men and Women All Over America Appear To Be Physical Wrecks Simply Because Their Systems Are Starving for Nourishment.

There are hundreds of thin, run-down, nervous men and women all over the United States who should be strong, sturdy and vigorous, with rich, red blood tingling through their veins and feeling brimful of life and energy, if they would only profit by the experience of others all over the United States and Canada, and assist nature to digest the food they eat, by simply taking Tanlac.

Millions of people have not only been relieved of the most obstinate cases of dyspepsia and indigestion by Tanlac after other remedies have failed, but large numbers of them have reported a remarkable and rapid increase in weight and a return to normal health and strength by its use.

In fact, so phenomenal have been the gains in weight by thin, frail people through the use of Tanlac that this remarkable preparation is now being proclaimed everywhere as the World's Greatest Tonic.

The food people eat does them absolutely no good unless they digest it properly. When you suffer from indigestion and other forms of stomach trouble, the food does you harm instead of good, because food which is not digested stays in the stomach and ferments, causing pains, swelling, gas on stomach, shortness of breath, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness and many other disagreeable symptoms. If this condition is permitted to run on for an indefinite period the entire system becomes saturated with poisons, the patient becomes thin and pale and in time various complications are apt to result.

Tanlac is a powerful reconstructive tonic and quickly overcomes this condition by aiding nature to eliminate the poisons from the system in a natural way and enable the vital organs to properly perform their functions. That is why it is called Nature's Medicine.

In fact, there is not a single portion of the body that is not benefited by the helpful action of Tanlac which begins its work by stimulating the digestive and assimilative organs, thereby enriching the blood and invigorating the entire system. Next it enables the weak, worn-out stomach to thoroughly digest its food and convert the nourishing elements into bone, blood and muscle. The result is you feel strong, sturdy and well with the proper amount of flesh, as Nature intended. Sold by all good druggists.

NOT A MATTER FOR POLICE MAY REMODEL UNION JACK

Elderly Gentleman Meant Well, but He Had Not Allowed for Possible Contingencies.

The wisest person may sometimes make a serious mistake by judging entirely by appearance, as is shown by this case.

A careless young woman, in starting to leave a car, dropped her purse. A young man, who evidently intended to leave the car at the same time, saw her drop the purse, picked it up and put it into his pocket.

But his action had not been unnoticed. Just as he stepped from the car an elderly man gripped him by the arm and whispered: "If you don't give that purse to the young lady this instant I'll expose you."

"Yes, certainly!" gasped the astonished young man. Then, with a grin, "I beg pardon, Marle; you dropped your purse."

"Oh, thank you, Harry," she replied, as she took it.

"I hope you are satisfied," said Harry, turning to the elderly man. "The lady is my sister." Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Ireland's New Position in British Empire Likely to Bring Change in Famous Flag.

Among the lesser and more sentimental sacrifices the British feel they are making for Irish peace, there is the prospect of the changed Union Jack.

On the death of Charles I the flag of St. George again became the national flag, but in 1706, after the union with Scotland, the cross standard with the blue background was restored. In 1801 the red cross of St. Patrick was super-imposed on St. Andrew's cross, making the present Union Jack.

Why does any healthy person want to be kicked into wakefulness in the morning?

Many people feel that they have to be agitated into wakefulness in the morning. They think that without the tea or coffee they take in the morning that they will not be able to meet the tasks and duties of the day.

Nothing could be more false than this reasoning. Any doctor can tell you this. For a healthy body does not require a stimulant. It gets all the stimulant it needs from food.

The thein and caffeine found in tea and coffee are irritating to the heart and nervous system. They jolt the nerves into undue activity. The result is a reaction. This is why regular tea and coffee drinkers think they must have their stimulant the first thing in the morning to wind them up for the day.

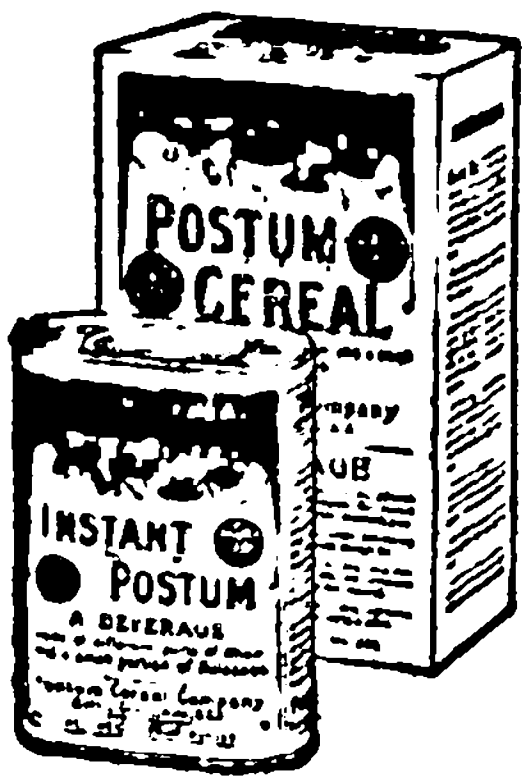

If you will stop using tea and coffee for a week, and drink

Postum, the pure cereal beverage instead, it will give Nature an opportunity to rid the system of the irritating substances that harass your nerves, upset digestion, increase your heart action, and make you nervous and irritable.

Many people who have tried Postum say that inside of a week they wake in the morning without that "all gone" feeling that they used to have, and are full of energy, strength and endurance.

Order Postum from your grocer today, and make it according to directions. Your first sip of Postum will surprise and please you.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tin) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of large bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

JUMPED BAIL AND FLED

Arthur C. Parr, of near Hanover, who was arrested in that place on Wednesday and admitted using the mails for sending threatening letters and trying to extort money from James E. Stout, also of Hanover, has disappeared. The man was left out on $500 bail, following his arrest and when the case was called before Squire Sell in that place on Saturday morning, he was not present. Investigation was made and it was then discovered that Parr had left for parts unknown. Parr had sent a letter, he confessed, through the Hanover post office, to Mr. Stout, directing him to carry $300 and pay that sum to Parr. He also made threats to get even with Stout if it took ten years. After Parr had been arrested by Officer Crabbs, he was taken before Inspector Smith, of the postal service and given a complete grilling. It was then that he admitted that he was the author and sender of the letter. The sending of a threatening letter through the mails is a serious offense and is punishable by not more than three years solitary confinement at hard labor and a fine of $1,000.

It is said that enmity existed between Parr and Stout sometime after Stout had wired a house for Parr and tried to collect for the electrical work.

SEAKS BONUS OPINION

Honorable E. S. Brooks, member of Congress from the twenty-second district, which includes York and Adams counties, has sent a number of form letters to his constituents in this section, as well as to members of the various American Legion posts in the county in order to ascertain their stand on the Soldiers' and Sailors' Adjusted Compensation bill which is before the present session of Congress at Washington. A lively fight is being waged for and against this measure all over the country and it is Mr. Brooks' idea to get an opinion from the voters and ex-service men in this county before he takes his stand on the measure when it is reported out of the Ways and Means committee to the House. At the last session of Congress when a similar bill was before the House, Mr. Brooks cast his vote in favor of the measure. At the opening of his letter, Mr. Brooks asks the question whether the Adjusted Compensation Bill should be passed at the present time or tabled until the financial condition of the country is more favorable.

ARTERY SEVERED

While Mrs. Paul Kitzmiller, Hamilton township, was carrying a crock of milk in her hand, Thursday, a sudden gust of wind blew the door against her, breaking the crock, a piece of which cut a deep gash in her arm severing an artery. At the time of the accident Mrs. Kitzmiller was alone at home except for two small children, and she was obliged to go to a neighbor's house to phone for a doctor. Drs. T. C. Miller, Abbottstown, and Edgar Miller, of East Berlin, were summoned, and on their arrival they found she had lost so much blood that it was necessary to take her to Warner hospital for treatment, which was done immediately.

DR. ELGIN'S PETITION OUT

The petition of Dr. Eugene Elgin, East Berlin, who seeks re-election as Adams county's representative in the state legislature, is being circulated in this county by the physician's many friends. Dr. Elgin was an active member of the last legislature and was appointed on a number of important committees. He was especially active in the interest of all bills coming before the body which were beneficial to farmers and for the betterment of agricultural conditions in the state.

A slight automobile accident occurred Sunday when an automobile driven by an unknown McSherrytown man crashed into the machine of Robert Alwine, residing near Abbottstown, along the Lincoln Highway, about two miles east of that place. None of the occupants of either car was injured. It is claimed by residents of the community that the McSherrytown car was driven by a man under the influence of liquor. Alwine, it is claimed, was as far to the right hand side of the road as he could get, when the car struck him head on. Both machines were damaged. Alwine was driving west on the highway at the time, and the other car was eastward bound.

Two grey foxes furnished excitement for 35 riders, 20 dogs and about 300 spectators Wednesday afternoon at a chase at Hunterstown. The first fox was liberated at the west end of town and after two hours the animal was caught on the W. B. McIlhenny farm. The dogs caught the fox first, Frank Weaver saving the animal from death. The second fox, which was released at the south end of that town furnished sport for about half an hour and was caught by Robert Bream. Both foxes were later killed by their captors.

"SIGHT UNSEEN"
TRADE IS GAMBLE

Consumer Takes Long Chance
When He Buys From the Mail Order House.

GENERALLY IS LOSING GAME

Method of Doing Business Is Very Different When You Purchase Goods From Your Home Merchant.

(Copyright.)

When you were a youngster, did you ever make a trade, "sight unseen"? Of course you did. What boy has not risked his jackknife or his choicest marble on such a proposition and how often has he repented of his rash deed when he discovered what he got in the trade? He generally found that the deal turned out to the advantage of the one who made the proposition.

There is a little of the gambling instinct in the blood of nearly every man, woman and child, but even the hardened gambler likes to get a "run for his money." The "sight unseen" proposition doesn't appeal to him in the least. There are thousands of people, however, who would be properly indignant if they were accused of being gamblers, who every day take a chance on the greatest gambling game in the world. And worse than that, they are risking their money on a "sight unseen" proposition.

When one of the thousands of persons who build up and keep up the great mail order houses of the country sends his money away to pay for some article that he has selected from the mail order catalogue, he is taking a chance on getting what he expects to get. The mail order house may be perfectly honest and still the purchaser stands a good chance of not getting what he expects to get. The mail order catalogues are filled with pictures that catch the eye. The descriptions are brief, as they must be when thousands of articles are to be described within the confines of one book. No matter how hard the mail order house might try to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, it would be an impossibility. The buyer is simply taking a chance.

How much more satisfactory it is to walk into a store in your home town and ask to see an article which you may have seen advertised in your home paper. What would anyone think of your business ability or your common sense if you walked into a store at home and said: "I saw a picture in the paper today of a suit which I liked very much. Please wrap up one for me. Here's the money." The merchant would think that you were crazy, but that is exactly what you do every time you send an order to a mail order house. You buy "sight unseen" and you haven't a ghost of a chance of getting your money back if the article is unsatisfactory when it reaches you.

How different is the proceeding when you go into the store in your own home town to buy a suit of clothes, or a stove or a yard of ribbon. You may have seen a picture of it in the merchant's advertisement in the home paper and you know that, as the merchant is reliable, you can count on the goods being as he represents them in his advertisement. But does he ask you to take his word for everything? Does he hide the article behind the counter and tell you that you can't even see it until you buy it and pay for it? No, he doesn't. He tells you that he will guarantee it or that he will not. If he tells you that he will guarantee it you will know that he will get your money back or another suit or another pair of socks in its place if it doesn't wear like it should, for the merchant, besides being an honest man in most cases, cannot afford not to make his word good. He is dependent upon your business and that of others in his own community and he cannot afford to misrepresent his goods.

Then, if it is a suit of clothes you are buying, or a piece of dress goods or a pair of socks, you may ask the merchant will guarantee that it will wear as long as an article of that kind could be expected to wear and he will tell you either that he will guarantee it or that he will not. If he tells you that he will guarantee it you will know that he will get your money back or another suit or another pair of socks in its place if it doesn't wear like it should, for the merchant, besides being an honest man in most cases, cannot afford not to make his word good. He is dependent upon your business and that of others in his own community and he cannot afford to misrepresent his goods.

After having all this opportunity to see what you are buying, you take your suit or your stove or whatever it is you buy home or it is sent home for you without any delivery charges, and after you get home and take another look at it and decide you don't want it after all, you send it back.

You are not buying something "sight unseen" when you buy from your home merchant. You don't look at a picture of an article in a newspaper, read a short description of it, go to the post office and buy a money order and send it to the merchant with the instructions, "Send me a suit of clothes"—or a stove or whatever it may be—"and I'll pay your delivery man 50 cents for delivering it to me."

There's a world of difference in the two methods of doing business and it is not hard to figure out which is the best for the man who is doing the buying.

SCHOOL DIRECTORS MEET

The 31st annual convention of the school directors of Adams county opened in the court house Friday morning with practically all of the members of the association present. Howard S. Reigle, of McSherrytown, the president, made the opening address. Speakers for the morning and afternoon sessions included Dr. A. C. Rothermel, principal of the Keystone State Normal school, of Kutztown, and Dr. C. C. Ellis, vice president of Juniata College. The report of the three delegates to the State Convention of School Directors was read by Irvin S. Brumgard, of Littlestown. The report gave a detailed account of the State meeting and was unanimously accepted at the end of its reading. The three delegates at the State Convention were Irvin S. Brumgard, Littlestown; Samuel E. Baker, Hamilton township, and Edward C. Keefer, of York Springs.

The convention went into a business session following the address of Mr. Rothermel when Jacob M. Hulick, of New Oxford, read the treasurer's report for the past year. A balance of $30 was shown in the hands of the treasurer.

Rev. T. C. Hesson, of Arendtsville, succeeds Howard S. Reigle, of McSherrytown, as president of the association. In addition, Irvin S. Brumgard, of Littlestown, was chosen first vice president; William C. Van Scoy, of Littlestown, second vice president; George P. Black, Gettysburg, secretary; I. C. Bucher, Benderville, treasurer, and Reuben D. Schwartz, Mt. Joy township, auditor. Calvin A. Cluck, Franklin township; John H. Sealey, Biglerville; John W. Rader, East Berlin, were chosen delegates to the State convention. Philip W. Wagoner, Mt. Pleasant township, Ernest Bittinger, of Menallen township, and Thos. A. Low, Hamilton township, were selected as alternates.

On Saturday the Teachers' Annual Rally was held in the Gettysburg high school building.

Walter W. Davis, for several years manager of the Hanover McCrory 5 & 10c Store, resigned his position, to take effect, March 15th. Mr. Davis has accepted a position with Wentz Bros. & Frey. Frank Willet, who had been a clerk in the Army & Navy Store, Hanover, has accepted a position in the McCrory Store, where he was formerly employed.

FIERY, ITCHING SKIN IS QUICKLY SOOTHED WITH THIS SULPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema, that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing soothes fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is as precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the itching, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.

Storm Country Polly

by Grace Miller White

Copyright by Little, Brown and Company

THE MILLIONS whose hearts were touched by the story of "Tess of the Storm Country" or who were equally affected by the sweet, pathetic little heroine as acted on the screen by Mary Pickford, will be charmed by this new tale of the squatter folk who once lived on Lake Cayuga, a few miles outside of Ithaca, N.Y.

Polly herself, crude and untaught, but beautiful in face and fine in spirit, is an adorable heroine, loyal through thick and thin, tempestuous at times when her anger is aroused by wrong or injustice, but tenderness itself to all weak and helpless creatures.

The situations in "Storm Country Polly" are tensely emotional, skillfully portrayed and adroitly handled, and the reader's sympathy with Polly and her people never lapses from start to finish.

STOLEN SEDAN RECOVERED

A Ford sedan belonging to J. I. Hereter was stolen on Tuesday evening in Hagerstown and was discovered along the road from Greencastle to Chambersburg early on Wednesday morning. Mrs. Hereter and Miss Maybelle Hereter had gone to Hagerstown to visit Mrs. Roy Phillipy on Monday, intending to stay several days. The car was stolen while standing in front of the Phillipy home. Mr. Phillipy was attending a meeting in Gettysburg on Tuesday and word was sent to him to look out for the car on his way home. He discovered it not far from Chambersburg in bad condition, broken headlights, bent fenders and broken radius rod, suggesting a collision. No clues were found of the thieves.

The case of John R. Humpton, of Parkersburg, vs. Basehoar & Mehring, of Littlestown, in action in trespass, to recover damages for injuries to plaintiff's automobile in a collision on Lincoln Highway on April 8, 1921, was heard before the courts of West Chester last week. Thursday morning a sealed verdict was filed with the court, the jurors granting to Mr. Humpton $318.00 on his claim of $644.23. Two more suits are to be heard in May, that of Basehoar & Mehring vs. Humpton, and that of Charles Pfeiffer vs. Humpton, in which Pfeiffer claims $10,000 damages for injuries received in the accident.

The consistency of the German Reformed congregation of Gettysburg, has made application to the Court of Common Pleas praying that its charter be amended by changing its corporate name to "Trinity Reformed Church of Gettysburg, Pa." and the said Court has fixed March 6th as time for hearing said petition. For 30 years the congregation has been known as Trinity Reformed which title it was christened at the re-dedication exercises of the present edifice in 1892, by Dr. T. J. Barkley the pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Emmert, York Springs, have received an announcement of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Herman Singer, of Leipzig, Germany. Mrs. Singer is a niece of the Emmerts and is well known in York Springs.

Roy J. Seidenstricker, of Hanover, who has been in China since the early part of 1920 as a member of Co. L, 15th Inf., will leave the Celestial republic within the next few weeks and expects to reach the States in June.

LAXATIVE for Aged People

THE BANE of old age is constipation. The bowels become weak and unable to perform their functions without aid. For this purpose only the mildest and gentlest laxative should be used. The use of harsh cathartics aggravates the trouble and makes the constipation worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are a favorite with people of middle age and older on account of their gentle action.

Leighton Taylor, formerly of Bendersville, but now residing in Washington, has been named defendant in a suit filed at Washington, Wednesday, for $100,000 damages for alleged assault and battery on the person of Mrs. Alma C. Smythe, of Alexandria, Va. Mr. Taylor was born in Cumberland county, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Taylor. His parents moved to Bendersville when he was a boy 6 years old. He left Bendersville about 15 years ago and after completing a business course at Lancaster became secretary to a number of prominent men in this state. Mr. Taylor was secretary to the late Senator Boies Penrose and was clerk of the Senate Finance Committee. The declaration filed by Mrs. Smythe charges that about May 1, 1921, she went to the Senate Finance Committee room to see Senator Penrose, and that "the said Leighton Taylor, without any justifiable, reasonable, or probable cause, whatever, rudely, unlawfully and with much force and violence, grabbed hold of, and kissed the plaintiff without her consent and over her resistance." All of this is emphatically denied by Taylor.

Following a great scrimmage at a pig chase at York Springs, Saturday week, in which competition was so effective that at last by common consent and in mercy to the bleeding pig, the contest was abandoned and the pig drawn for, it being fairly won by Clarence Lehner. In the fox chase, after being run about 10 miles, the fox was caught by the dogs about a mile west of that town, Dilbert Lory being the first to get the carcass. The Adams County Sabbath School Association has taken up the promotion of the Daily Vacation Bible School in dead earnest and realizes that it is not a bit too soon to start preparations. It is a matter of deep interest to parents, children and Sunday School workers and is simply a school operated by the church, in the church during the summer vacation months for the better moral religious training of the child.

Dr. A. B. Statton, of Hagerstown, Superintendent of Salem U. B. church, has announced the appointment of Rev. E. H. Hummelbaugh as chairman and Irvin G. Naugle, as lay chairman, of committees in a drive for funds for that denomination in Adams county to be held this spring.

Calvin Mummert, on the C. N. Myers poultry farm, near Mt. Pleasant, killed three porkers on Wednesday, the combined weights of which were 1538 pounds. They weighed 587, 523 and 428 pounds respectively.

MAY GIVE SHICK TEST

In order to get the sentiment of the parents of school children in Adams county with regard to their giving consent to the general use of the Shick test in all schools of the county, Dr. J. Bruce McCreary, associate chief medical director of the State Department of Health, has sent questionnaires to every doctor in this county with instructions to fill them in and return them after a week's inquiry. The purpose of the Shick test which was demonstrated at the Warner hospital on 8 children of the school age on January 7 this year, is to find out whether the child has natural immunization from the diphtheria germ. If the test discloses a negative result, no toxin-antitoxin need be injected, but should the test result in a positive diagnosis after 48 hours, then the serum toxin-antitoxin will be injected into the system of the patient until further tests disclose that the patient is immune. Once immune by the use of this serum, there is no danger of ever contracting diphtheria. Within the next week, doctors will advise teachers to ask their pupils what their parents think of the plan proposed by Dr. McCreary and if a sufficiently high percentage of parents consent to the use of the test on their children, it will be administered without cost to either the parents or the school authorities. The test, if administered at a hospital would cost in the neighborhood of $15, it is said. That the test is perfectly harmless is shown by the fact that recently it was tried on 2000 infants, all less than a year old without fatal result.

On March 1, the freight bus line of the Gettysburg-Harrisburg Transportation Company was removed at the request of the Public Service Commission. The company will continue to operate their passenger buses between Gettysburg and Harrisburg and Littlestown. The charter for the company, signed by Governor Sproul and the secretary of the commonwealth, was received Saturday. It is said to be the first charter granted a corporation for hauling passengers by motor buses. Other charters are held by individuals.

Permanent organization was effected at an enthusiastic community meeting held Friday evening in the Biglerville High School auditorium when a constitution was adopted and an executive committee appointed, to complete the organization. A community fair will be held in September.

Large Public Sale

ON WEDNESDAY, MARCH 8, 1922, AT 10 O'CLOCK
A. M. SHARP.

Having sold my Buttonwood farm, it will be necessary to sell my herd of registered Holstein cattle, horses and farming implements on the farm known as BUTTONWOOD STOCK FARM, two and one-half miles west of Gettysburg along the Mummasburg road.

Thirty head of registered Holstein Friesian cattle, 23 head of horses and colts will be sold, also

A full line of farming implements on 600 acre farm, lot of farm gears and harness.

Thirty head of registered Holsteins consisting of cows, heifers, heifer calves, bull calves, by a great individual and among the best bred herd sires in the country.

This herd sire is by Rex Pontiac 116959 and out of Green Plan Cora Veeman 118344, with a butter record of 28½ pounds in seven days.

We believe that no herd sire has more uniform, high-class individuals than the get of this sire. His off-spring are low-set, sturdy, broad and deep-chested, and his daughters that have been freshening are uniformly strong milkers, of a good butter test.

This is a great milking herd, bred from the best bred lines of the Holstein breed.

Farmers and breeders will be given a great opportunity to supply themselves with pure bred registered Holstein stock from one of the best milking herds in the community. Breed registered pure bred cattle. State College and government institutions are uniformly advising the breeding of pure bred stock rather than animals of unknown breeding, showing by actual test that the profits from pure bred stock are from one-third to one-half more than common bred dairy cattle.

Sale will start at 10 o'clock sharp. Send for catalogue to

is easy to use
No other lye is packed so safely and conveniently, or is so economical as Banner Lye.
No other lye or soap cleans and disinfects
so easily and thoroughly as Banner Lye. It is not old-style lye. Odorless and colorless;
the greatest cleanser and disinfectant the
your kitchen, cellar, sinks, dairy, milk-pans
and bottles, for softening water, and the labor
of washing and cleaning will be cut in half.

Makes pure soap
and saves money besides. A can of Banner Lye, 5½ pounds of kitchen grease,
ten minutes' easy work (no boiling or large lumps), and you have 10 pounds of best hard soap or 20 gallons of soft soap.

Banner Lye is sold by your grocer or druggist.

HEAVY MEAT EATERS HAVE SLOW KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backache or have bladder trouble—Take
glass of Salts

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and
fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble,
nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish
kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by
a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat
and get about four ounces of Jad.
Salts from any pharmacy; take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before
breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice,
combined with lithia, and has been used
for generations to flush and stimulate
the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids
in urine so it no longer causes irritation,
thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot
injure; makes a delightful effervescent
lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the
kidneys clean and active and the blood
complications.

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens
So Naturally that Nobody can tell.

Hair that loses its color and lustre,
or when it fades, turns gray, dull and
lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmothers made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur
to keep her locks dark and beautiful,
and thousands of women and men who
value that even color, that beautiful
dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.
Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage
and Sulphur Compound," which dark-
ens the hair so naturally, so evenly,
that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw
this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning
the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage
and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair
after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it
an appearance of abundance.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite
to impart color and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg
Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time during the day or before retiring.
It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion.
Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from
a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive
and entirely vegetable, therefore safe
and harmless.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

Rub Pain and Stiffness away with a small bottle of old honest
St. Jacobs Oil

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has
you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 35 cent bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into
count fifty, the soreness and lameness
is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing,
penetrating oil needs to be used only
once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery.
It is magical, yet absolutely harmless
and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica
and lame back misery so promptly!

Healing Cream Stops Catarrh

Clogged Air Passages Open at Once—Nose and Throat Clear.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head stuffed because of catarrh or a cold, get Lily's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this pure, antiseptic, germ destroying cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head and membranes. Instant relief.

How good it feels. Your head is clear. Your nostrils are open. You breathe freely. No more hawking or snuffling. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up, choked up and miserable. Relief is sure.

SURPRISE PARTY

A birthday surprise party Friday evening was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fleschman, Hanover road, in honor of their daughter, Kathleen. The evening was spent in playing games and music. Refreshments were served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Fleschman, Misses Kathleen, Ethel, Helen and Janet Fleschman, Theresa Funk, Doris Stambaugh, Hilda Weisensale, Marie Hock-ensmith, Myrtle Bentzel, Margaret

Found a Cure for Indigestion.—I use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for indigestion and find they suit my case better than any dyspepsia remedy I have ever tried and I have used many different medicines.
I am nearly fifty years of age and have suffered a great deal from indigestion. I can eat almost anything
I want to now," writes George W.
Emory, Rock Mills, Ala. These tablets contain no poison but strengthen
the stomach and enable it to digest
the food naturally.

The old store stand in McSherrys-town of John T. Rily, now of Philadelphia, owned by Roy R. Rudisill, which is being remodeled, will soon
have two occupants. Edward Overbaugh, who conducts a barber shop in the Pfaltzgraff apartments will open a barber shop on the one side. The other side will be used by Herbert
Smith, for an electrical shoe repairing shop. It is understood the machinery for the same is now on its way.

Charles Altland, Abbottstown, held
public sale of the stock and implements Saturday. Following were the prevailing prices: Pair of mules, $248; old pair mules, $170; single mules, $148, $150, $148 and $198;
blind horse, $61; old horse, $30; horse,
$79; seven head of cows, $45 to $60;
25 bulls, $25 to $60; shoats, $6 to $8
per head. Total receipts were $2,995.
A dentist's office on wheels passed thru here on Friday. The car is operated under the supervision of the Pennsylvania Department of Health.
The car is covering the State demonstrating the care of the teeth. The services of the dentist are given free to all school children.

GOOD ROADS NECESSARY FOR RURAL DELIVERIES

The following is the gist of a letter which has been sent to Postmasters from which Rural delivery routes start:

In cases of impassable roads, bad condition of roads, unsafe bridges, dangerous roads or other obstruction to service on rural routes, the postmaster at distributing office shall notify the patrons affected and the road supervisors or officials in charge of such matters and request that the necessary repairs be made and if they are not made promptly the postmaster shall report the facts to the Fourth Asst. Postmaster General of Rural Mails with recommendations for an amendment of the route to withdraw it from the mail.

Postmaster General shall in like manner report every instance where a non-automatic gate is maintained on any road covered by rural delivery service.

Will H. Haver,
Postmaster General.

The Pneumonia Month—March is a ter, the system loses much of its typical pneumonia month and usually gives a high rate of mortality for the disease. After a long and hard winter and people grow careless. When every cold no matter how slight, is given prompt and intelligent attention, there is much less danger of pneumonia. It should be born in mind that pneumonia is a germ disease and breeds in the throat. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an expectorant and cleans out the germ laden mucus and not only cures a cold but prevents its resulting in pneumonia. It is pleasant to take. Children take it willingly.

The Department of Forestry will develop 13 public camp grounds in the State Forests this spring. They will be fully equipped for the convenience of campers and sportsmen, and will be ready for use when the trout-fishing season opens, April 15. One of them will be developed at Caledonia Park, on the Lincoln highway, between Gettysburg and Chambersburg. Thousands of automobile tourists, many of them campers, motor over that highway to the Battleground every summer, and it is believed they will use the camp ground maintained by the Department.

STOP THAT ACHE

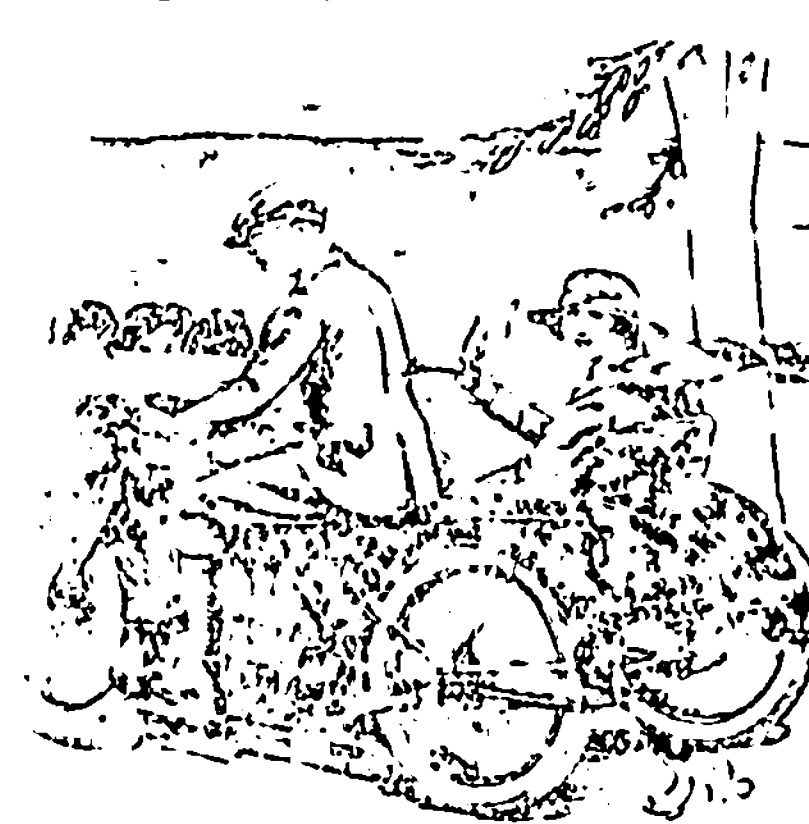

Don't worry and complain about a bad back. Get rid of that pain and lameness! Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Many grateful people have used them and know how effective they are. Ask your neighbor. Here's a convincing case.

Mrs. J. S. Funk, 31 S. Church St., Waynesboro, Pa., says: Some time ago I was suffering from kidney trouble. I had a terrible backache that was worse in the morning than at any other time. The pain shot up my spine until it reached my head. I got dizzy and my eyes felt badly. These troubles made me feel very depressed and miserable. None of the medicine I tried did me much good until I finally got Doan's Kidney Pills. They relieved all this and made me feel like a different woman."

OVER FIVE YEARS LATER, Mrs. Funk said: "I wouldn't be without Doan's Kidney Pills in my home. I only need them occasionally when a cold settles on my kidneys."

Bell Phone 8-R3

Looking through an old Bell Directory is as interesting as rummaging through grandmother's trunk in the attic.

It is a good way to check up on the progress of the community. It is surprising to find how often the first users of the telephone were the men of vision who later developed into leaders in their respective fields.

The first telephone directory was merely a sheet of paper with the names of about a dozen subscribers. In most cases no numbers were printed in the directory and calls were made by name. You simply said to the operator "Get me Mrs. Jones."

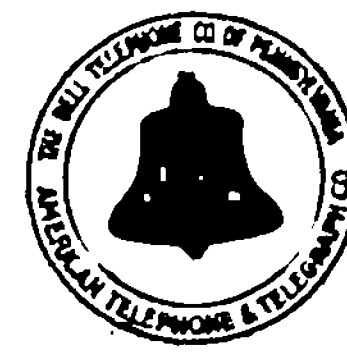

Every new telephone directory is a new footprint in the path of progress. The extension of the service and your increasing dependence on this means of communication is a tribute to the performance of the Bell Telephone System in the past.

New problems of operation and management develop as fast as the old ones are solved, but we have faith in our ability to meet the demands of each new era as we have met those of the past.

And we have the benefit of the experience of others who are working on similar problems in other parts of the Bell System.

A retreat for the ministers of the Gettysburg classis was held Monday in Grace church, Hanover, the Rev. William H. Snyder, pastor.

The Warner hospital recently received a donation of $85 from the Cashtown auxiliary, the result of a supper.

An argument over an alleged board bill which led to heated words and the firing of several shots from a revolver were grounds for citizens of Orrtanna calling the State Police of Gettysburg Wednesday evening to quell the brawl. George Kaurman, aged about 25, who is said to have owed John Regan, with whom he boarded, a bill for his accommodation, is the man who fired the shots, all of which went wild. After a search over the country in the vicinity of Orrtanna, the State troopers returned empty handed. Both men were said to have been under the influence of liquor.

Young People Need to Be Shown That Farming Can Be Made to Pay

By PROF. E. A. ROSS, University of Wisconsin.

In a general way the flow to the cities is normal and inevitable. Cheap transportation provides the denizens of great cities with food at moderate prices. Hundreds of articles that two generations ago were home made are now factory made and these factories are in cities. Power-driven machinery on the farm releases a part of the rural population for other pursuits. The state of affairs has stimulated the exodus of the young people from the hard work and penny-pinching of the farms to the prospering, easy-going cities.

The country has not been keeping a fair share of its brighter boys and girls. It has been the young people with spirit and initiative who have responded to the call of the distant city. Had they stayed on the farm, this spirit of initiative would have shown itself along rural lines.

In certain older parts of the country which have been losing their young people to the West and the cities for two generations, there is a visible moral decline. The roads are neglected so there is less social intercourse and a smaller turnout to school, to church and public events. School buildings and grounds have deteriorated. The church is in a rut or has even disappeared. Frivolity engrosses the young because no one organizes singing schools, literary societies or debating clubs. The next generation, having missed the benefits of these communal institutions, shows itself coarse, sensual and irresponsible. There is a marked decline in the standards of individual and family morality. This is an explanation of the "degeneracy" that one finds in certain rural parts of New England and middle states.

The remedy is to make life on the farms more attractive. There is need of redirecting rural education, reinvigorating the rural church, multiplying societies of recreative opportunities and dispelling the false glamour of the distant city. The young people need to be shown that farming can be made to pay if one puts brains and energy to it.

The Interference of Radical Leaders of Both Capital and Labor

By HENRY J. ALLEN, Governor of Kansas.

Industrial squabbles are the worst menace which this country faces today. Kansas faced the same situation two years ago and met it successfully with an industrial tribunal for the settlement of disputes between capital and labor. Such a tribunal placed on the statute books of the nation today would bring industrial peace.

We have passed through an industrial crisis which was settled temporarily by the railroad labor board. Of course, settlement of any strike is a good thing, but personally I would have been glad if the rail strike had materialized.

The question then would have been whether the government would rule, and I believe that there was enough Dutch courage in this congress to have passed legislation calling for an industrial tribunal.

We could then sit and say to labor and to the employer, "If you cannot settle your quarrels without bringing civil war on the helpless public, then this government will do it for you."

Racial Deterioration Evident Among All Highly Civilized Peoples

By MAJ. LEONARD DARWIN, Son of Charles Darwin.

Racial deterioration seems evident among all highly civilized peoples because of the thinning out of the descendants of highly endowed stock and the multiplication of those of inferior endowment. The result is anticipated that in comparison with the ill-endowed, the naturally well-endowed will, as time goes on, take a smaller and smaller part in the production of the coming generations, with a tendency to progressive racial deterioration as an inevitable consequence. Statistical inquiries prove conclusively that, where good incomes are being earned, there the families are on the average small.

I can find no facts which refute the theoretical conclusion that the unborn qualities of civilized communities are deteriorating, and the process will inevitably lead in time to an all-round downward movement.

What is necessary is to make it deeply and widely felt that it is both immoral and unpatriotic for couples sound in mind and body to unduly limit the size of their families. The nation that wins in this moral campaign will have gone half-way toward gaining a great racial victory.

Upon the Integrity of American Homes Depends Our Whole National Life

By RT. REV. W. A. GUERRY, Episcopal Bishop South Carolina.

The startling statement that one-twentieth of all marriages in the United States end in divorce is of itself sufficient to arouse every earnest man and woman to the seriousness of the situation that confronts us.

Upon the integrity and purity of the American home depends the whole superstructure of our national life. Where the home is undermined and destroyed and children cast adrift by a selfish and self-centered individualism, there is an end of all social and moral restraint.

To combat the growing evil of divorce in this country a group of public-spirited men and women have been trying to get through congress a uniform divorce law. What is known as the Edmonds bill aims to accomplish this end. The purpose of this bill is to limit the grounds of divorce.

One difficulty in the way of a wide-spread publicity and agitation in favor of more stringent divorce laws grows out of the fact that the divorce evil has become universal. Another trouble is that most people who are seeking divorce are not satisfied with a legal separation. The underlying purpose of it all is too often the intention of marrying again as soon as the divorce has been granted.

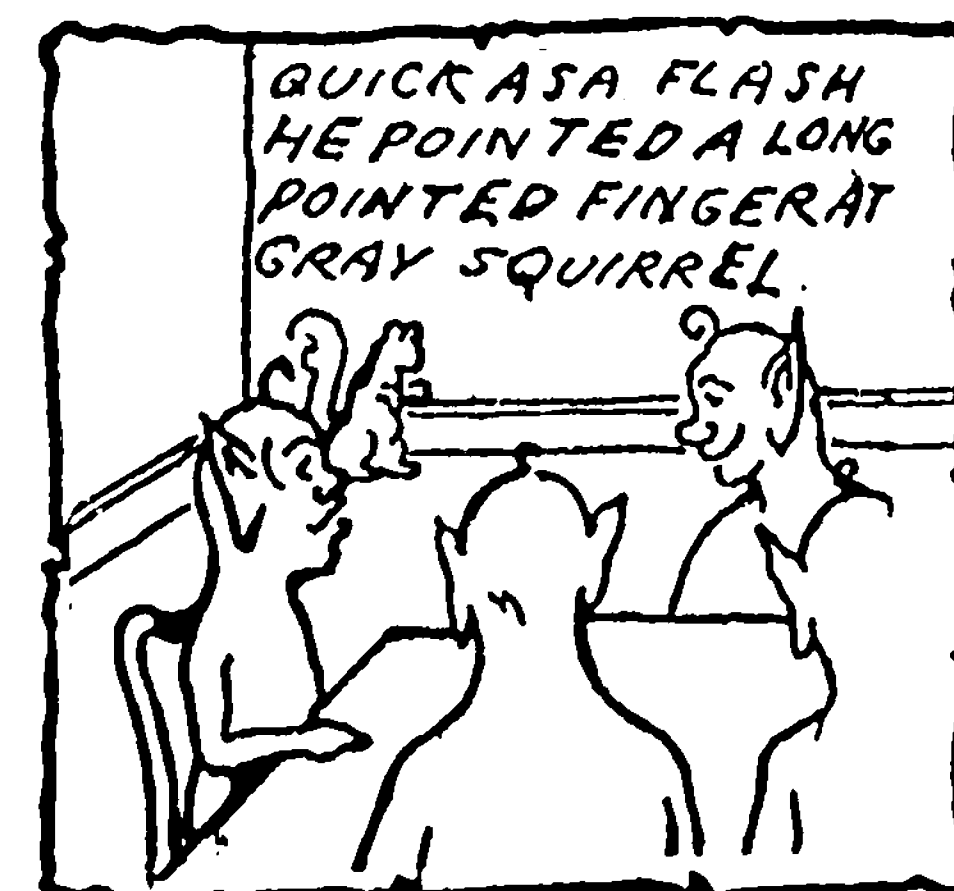

THE GREEDY SQUIRREL

HE IS sure it all happened, but his mother told him if he had not eaten such a heavy supper he would not have dreamed it—but for all that he has his tail to prove his story.

Grey Squirrel had a very bad habit of getting up after all the family were in bed and getting nuts that were to be served for breakfast, for he was a greedy little fellow and cared little about anyone but himself.

One night as he got out of his bed he saw a light shining, and when he looked out of the window of his home

he saw under the bushes across the path a long table spread for a feast.

Around the table sat so many little men in green and red suits that Grey could not count them.

These little men all wore red caps, which they were very careful to make sure were on their heads, for every once in a while Grey noticed that they would feel to see that the red cap was in place.

Then out of the house he carefully crept and was soon on the other side of the path hiding behind some bushes, where he could plainly see all that happened.

Of course, the little men feasting were Goblins and Grey should have known better than to have gone out of the house while they could be seen, for those little magic people are very jealous of any eyes that look at them other than their own magic folks.

But his greediness soon got him into trouble, for he poked his little head out too far and a Goblin saw him.

Quick as a flash he pointed a long pointed finger at Grey Squirrel and gave a funny little cry of "kool, kool."

Grey Squirrel, of course, expected to dart back from sight and run as he always did; but to his surprise he found he could not move his head or feet or his tail.

Grey tried again to run, but it was no use, he could not move and in another second the funny little men stood in a circle around him.

"He is a good nut cracker," said one. "Why not make him a Grey Goblin and have him for our servant? He could crack all our nuts, and to punish him still more for peeking at us tonight we will not let him eat any; only crack them for us."

"Never eat another nut" thought poor Grey. "Why, I'd rather lose my

"What's in a Name?"

Facts about your name: its history, meaning, whence it was derived, significance, your lucky day and lucky jewel

LOIS

LOIS is really a masculine name. It means "famous war" and comes from the Teutonic nomenclature through the Karling romances. Loia or Loiz, as it is sometimes spelled, is really Loia.

The French king whom the French knew as Louis de Debonnaire, was originally called Ludouicus. The Provençal promptly softened the name to Alois, but so popular did Louis become that no member of the French royal family was christened without it. Finally the soft Alois gained favor throughout France and the "a" was dropped, producing the musical Loia. The Bretons were already using the name of Loia, so the "a" in Loia disappeared and Loia appeared and remained permanent.

Lois was the only form of the innumerable versions of Loia that became applied to a feminine name. Spain's Loia has never wavered from its masculine interpretation, nor has the Loiz of Portugal. France formed an Heloise from Loia and Louise might possibly be called an equivalent for Loia if it were not for that strain of Provençal.

Lois has been given in baptism generally as a name of sentiment. It is a trifle difficult to pronounce but is undoubtedly beautiful and extraordinarily popular in this country.

The talismanic gem assigned to Loia is the onyx. It should be worn with care as it is inclined to cool affection, provoke discord and separate lovers, but worn by Loia it prevents these very misfortunes. Monday is her lucky day and 4 her lucky number.

WHEN TO READ

What do you read?—Shakespeare.

A YOUNG bride writes with the following complaint: "My husband's older brother, who is making his home with us, insists on reading his morning paper at the breakfast table. This is annoying to me and I feel that it is an act of discourtesy to me. Although my husband himself does not do it he says it is quite all right for his brother to do so. What do you say about it?"

It is so usual for our busy husbands and fathers and brothers to read the paper over their breakfast, often because they feel that is the only time they have to do so, that it would be unfair to say that they are thereby doing us an act of discourtesy. However, I do agree with you that it is not very good manners. Where one does not have the excuse of reading the paper because it is the only opportunity to do so at breakfast then it is less pardonable than otherwise. If it is quite clear that the reading is simply actuated by curiosity and impatience then there is less excuse for it. The fact is that with many families mealtime is the only opportunity for friendly leisurely intercourse and where one person chooses to put a damper on that spirit he is acting in a decidedly unsocial manner.

If a person breakfasts alone that is another matter. Then he may read the paper for companionship. So in a hotel restaurant when you occupy a table by yourself you are not showing bad manners; to do so though if you must eat at a table with other persons even if they are strangers to you, you are not showing very much politeness if you prop the paper up before you. The practice of paper reading has become so general at breakfast time that there are little metal paper props in the stores for which there is considerable demand, making it possible for one to eat undisturbed and have one's paper held at a convenient angle before him.

There is really no reason why one should not read a paper in the car or train though, of course, the courteous man or woman will contrive to hold the paper or magazine or book so that it does not annoy his neighbors or so that his elbows in holding it do not prod them. It is extremely discourteous to read paper or magazine at a lecture, or any performance. If this does not actually embarrass the performers it is the kind of thing that detracts from the enjoyment of the other members of the audience. And never, never read when someone is talking to you. To be sure, you may be able to attend to what is being said to you and sense what you are reading at the same time, but it is the sort of discourtesy that is almost never excusable.

ORANG-UTAN

"I've forgotten whether I was named after another Orang-Utan or after a Chimpanzee," said the Orang-Utan, "but anyway my name is Toto and I was named after one of those two creatures I have mentioned."

"I'm one of the creatures myself. That is—I am an Orang-Utan and might please I am to be one. I think I will sing a song about it."

So the Orang-Utan sang in his funny little voice,

An Orang-Utan am I,
And never do I sigh,
For I'm happy as the day is long,
This is all to my little song.

"Are you going to tell the story of your life, Toto?" asked another Orang-Utan in the zoo.

"I don't know," said Toto, "but I will tell something of the ways of the Orang-Utan family. It would be a pity if people didn't know about us and how friendly we are. It would be a great pity indeed."

"From the time an Orang-Utan is a little baby he is a dear, cunning little creature."

"When he is little he is a dear little creature, wanting to be friendly with everyone. If no one will be friendly with him he cries in a sad little voice. But an Orang-Utan baby makes friends. He is such a darling!"

"Then he usually has such beautiful brown eyes, which look so pleadingly at everyone."

"We haven't feet shaped as the Chimpanzee has, and we don't dress up with so much ease as he does, because we cannot wear shoes very comfortably."

"Our toes are long and shoes don't fit us well. But we are much more friendly than he is, though he may have more brains than we have. We have brains though. Yes, plenty of brains and we're surely next to the Chimpanzee as far as brains are concerned. I'm quite sure of that."

"He is more nervous than we are. And we're more affectionate."

"Even though I am such a big creature I like to be held by my keeper. I suppose I will be heavier than he is one of these days. I'm not sure,

"I Am Proud."

but I know we become very heavy in time.

"But I never want to grow so big that I can't be loved by my keeper. For how I do adore to be loved by him, and how I do care to play with him and show him how much I love him!"

"I play with some of his friends who come to the zoo, too. And I've some good friends among them."

"My name of Orang means man, and my second name of Utan means jungle, for often I am known in the free state as the jungle man. I am called Toto by my keeper just as a boy is called by a special name."

"A boy is called Jimmie or Sam or Johnny or some such name."

"Some of us like to do tricks and others of us like to find out all we can and learn all we can, but all of us are pretty bright and pretty good at tricks."

"When I was free I used to live in a big nest in a tree which was strong but which used to blow a bit and move a bit so we could swing. We slept on beds of lovely branches and while we slept on our backs we always had our hands and feet about a branch so we could never fall or become hurt by any such accident."

"But, oh, while sometimes I think of the free days, I am happy here in the zoo. I am proud too, because my keeper loves me so."

"I would never go back on him. No, there isn't a mean or tricky or treacherous or unkind thing about me or my family. A mean orang-utan is something I have never seen and if there ever are any about I hope I won't see them as I'd not want to feel the family was disgraced."

"No, we are true and loyal, and we never change. Ah, there comes my good keeper friend now. I shall give him my finest kiss!"

Now He Knows.

"JUST POLLYOP—POLLY HOPKINS!"

"What's your name?" he inquired.

"Just Pollyop," was the answer. "Polly Hopkins. My daddy is Jeremiah Hopkins, the mayor of this settlement."

"Can I do something for you, Polly Hopkins?" queried Robert, as she finished telling about life in the squatters' city.

She flung out both hands in a comprehensive gesture as much as to say he could see for himself how much she needed.

"Sure, sure you can," she said with fierce emphasis. "You can make Old Marc leave us squatters be. You're bigger'n he is! The squatters need you awful bad."

Her voice broke. Robert took a long breath. Of course he could help this girl and her people. He would, too! As far as money gave power, he could equal and surpass Marcus MacKenzie.

"I did try to talk sense into Mr. MacKenzie's head," he returned presently, "but now I will make him leave you alone."

In spite of the curved lips about which a smile lurked, there was apprehension in her voice when she asked:

"Can you lick 'im to a finish, mister?"

"Yes, I think I could," laughed Robert; "but it won't be necessary."

"Then I see us Silent City folks bein' happy again," sighed Polly. "We got a awful lot of things an' folks to take care of here."

There you have them—Storm Country Polly and Robert Percival, heroine and hero of another of those fascinating stories by Grace Miller White. "Tess of the Storm Country" was her first story. It was printed as a serial in a magazine for women—and practically established the magazine. It was put on the movie screen—and made the fortune of a woman film star of world-wide fame. Of course Grace Miller White (Mrs. Friend H. Miller) kept right on writing of the "Storm Country." Half a dozen other stories have been successes. More than a million copies of her books have been sold. The "Storm Country," by the way, is Cayuga Lake and vicinity in New York, one of the garden spots of the world.

Given a beautiful and persecuted squatter girl and a nice young man with brains, sympathy and money—what more do you want for romance!

CHAPTER I.

Four miles from Ithaca, N. Y., Oscar Bennett's farm spread its acres along the face of West Hill between the Lehigh Valley tracks and the highway leading to Trumansburg. Oscar Bennett was what the country people and even the Ithaca folks called a fine farmer. His farmhouse faced a lane that led to the west shore of Lake Cayuga, and from the front porch he could see, much to his dislike, the few straggling squatter shacks that brought to an end northward the Silent City. Like all other substantial citizens, Oscar detested the squatters. In his estimation they were a set of thieving loafers and sneaks, and many times he had wished that he owned the ground they squatted on instead of Marcus MacKenzie.

Of course it was no secret that MacKenzie never let an opportunity slip to pop a fisherman into jail, but in Bennett's opinion that treatment was not severe enough, and besides, it did not accomplish anything. MacKenzie's idea was to jail the men whenever the chance came and for a period as long as the law would allow. But what good did that do? Pierce hatred flamed in the haggard faces of the women, and they held to their squatter rights with the tenacity of leeches until their husbands were given back to them. Bennett would have done away with the wives and mothers if the job of breaking up the Silent City had been his. No man would hang to a hut long without a woman in it.

One morning in the early spring Oscar was finishing his breakfast when the door opened slowly. A girl with a small tin pail in her hand stepped into the room. She smiled at him almost humbly.

The smile faded from the girl's face. Mechanically she turned, closed the door and, uninvited, seated herself in a chair and placed the pail at her side.

"So you've come begging, Pollyop," went on the farmer, wiping his lips on the sleeve of his gingham shirt. "Well, you might as well turn tail and run home again, for you're not going to get anything more from me. I don't want a poacher's brat around here."

The girl's bare wet feet drew tensely backward under the chair; but she remained discreetly silent. Oscar always abused her and called her names, but that was because she was a squatter. After a while, he'd change his mind, and then she would take home what she came for. She noted with a quick breath that Oscar's eyes softened during the time he was silent. That boded well for her errand; but Bennett's mind was not on milk or any of those suffering for the want of it.

He had just discovered that Polly Hopkins was beautiful even if she were barefooted and ragged. Her straight young shoulders were covered with wet curls that seemed to have

Polly noted the glitter in Bennett's angry eyes and felt again the quiver of fear.

"She gives you all she gets her fingers on," she came back at him in defense of the absent Evelyn. "Lots of times she's got along on about nothin' to send you cash, an' didn't I come runnin' up here with it as soon as she give it to me? Now her ma's gettin' on that Eve ain't spendin' her money on herself, an' she watches 'er like a hawk does a chicken. She told me that only yesterday."

The squatter girl rose to her feet, anxious to be gone.

"Oscar, you might be lettin' me have just a wee bit of milk. You ain't losin' nothin' through me."

She picked up the pail, and with a growl the man snatched it out of her hand.

"Women're a d-d nuisance," he grumbled. "Well, wait here."

He went out of the room, and Polly Hopkins drew a long breath. It was getting harder every day to get the milk she needed.

When Bennett returned, she was standing with her hand on the door knob, ready to go. In silence she took the pail he offered her.

"Lookin' here, Pollyop," he began abruptly, as Polly opened the door. "What's to hinder your paying for your milk yourself?"

He said it with extreme deliberation, making emphatic the last words.

Polly threw up her head and eyed him sharply. "I run my legs most off for you as 'tis, Oscar," she retorted, "between here and the Robertsons; but I don't never have no money. You know that, an' Daddy Hopkins don't get much, either. If I had a dollar, I bet I'd spend every penny of it fillin' up Jerry an' Daddy an' Granny Hope with milk an' eggs."

To make him understand how anxious she was to please him, she went forward a pace. "An' I'd buy 'em all of you, Oscar. That's as true as Granny Hope's God is settin' up in the sky."

"I didn't ask you for money," answered Bennett, staring at her. Suddenly he came close to her; and Polly backed to the door. His face was red and agitated; the cords in his neck were swollen while his fingers twisted eagerly. That was another thing about which Polly's eyes had been opened in two years of growing womanhood. When a man looked as Oscar did now, a girl got away as fast as she could.

"You might pay me in kisses," he muttered hoarsely, towering over her. "Ten kisses for each bucket. You're a heap prettier than Eve."

For a long moment Polly did not speak. Her breast heaved as she swayed backward.

"I get all the kisses I want to home," she said. "Here, take your hand off'n me, Oscar, or I'll tell Eve."

the first time I get sight of her." She glared up at him like a cornered animal. "I said I'd tell Eve. I'll do more than that! I'll put old woman Robertson next to your coppin' her kid an' marryin' 'er."

Oscar's fingers relaxed, and his hand dropped away from her arm as a rough laugh left his lips. She looked so lovely, her eyes blazing, her curls tumbling in confusion on her shoulders, that he would have taken his pay for the milk without her permission if she had not thrown at him a threat he feared she would carry out.

"Men's kisses are what you'll get, my pretty lass," he predicted grimly, "and if I was finished with Eve, by God, I'd set about getting my share. I won't always be married to my lady Robertson, mind you, Pollyop."

The blood had left his face. He was quite white and stern, and by this time Polly was on the porch.

"Tain't so easy to get unmarried as 'tis to get married," he told him. "An' me! I'm just Daddy Hopkins' brat, an' I don't want any kisses but his'n. I'd let Jerry's tongue go twist for milk before I'd pay for it with—"

Oscar sprang at her. She was so tantalizingly beautiful, so alluring even in her grotesque attire that for the moment he forgot he had reason to fear her.

"I'll kiss you, anyway," he snarled, but Polly, fleet-footed and afraid, shot from the porch and reached the lane the milk dashing against the cover of the pail.

The man halted, looking after her with a shrug of his shoulders he turned back into the house. For the moment he paused in the kitchen; he could hear his old mother pottering about overhead in his bedroom. She was doing the work his wife ought to do! What a fool he had been to marry Evelyn Robertson! Instead of the fortune he had expected, he was tied hand and foot without money or woman. He thought of the radiant squatter girl who had just left him. Two years ago womanhood had not dawned upon Polly Hopkins, but today—He undertaken an oath and went out to the barn.

Polly Hopkins ran down the lane as fast as her legs could carry her. The milk was safe in the bucket, and she had scarcely reached the railroad tracks before she had decided not to mention Oscar's vicious demand upon her. If she told Daddy Hopkins, he would do some harm to Bennett, and there would be no more eggs and milk for Granny and Jerry. If she spoke of it to Evelyn, there was no telling what the girl would do.

The tangle-haired squatter girl was the daughter of Jeremiah Hopkins, the mayor of the Silent City, the leader of all those who lived in the rows of huts that ran along the Lehigh Valley tracks and on down the lakeside.

Uncouth and ignorant were Jeremiah and his kind, and visitors who came to the little city of Ithaca agreed with the town's inhabitants that it was a shame the law allowed such a blot as the Silent City upon the natural beauty of Cayuga and its majestic surroundings.

Pollyop stood shivering, her troubled gaze searching the lake for a boat. Daddy Hopkins had gone away early with Wee Jerry, and she always worried a little when they were out. Yet she knew that the only way to get the bread, beans and bacon for the family was for Daddy Hopkins to defy the law and drag his nets whenever the game wardens were not about. Without the lake and its hidden food, it would be a desolate world indeed.

Wee Jerry was Polly's five-year-old brother, and long before he could walk, he had chosen his father's big shoulders upon which to beat his way through an unfriendly and often hungry world. But this same world which had wizened Jerry had given to Polly a wild beauty, a body strong and as pliant as a marsh reed.

With a sigh Pollyop turned to the house. The door was shut against the storm, and a thin curl of smoke twisted upward from the toppling chimney, losing itself in the baby leaves of the willows. The little lines that had traced the troubled brow vanished at the sight of a slab of wood over the door. On it was painted in crude letters: "If your heart is loving and kind come right in. If it ain't, scoot off." Pollyop and Granny Hope had worked a long time to make this sign, and even longer to nail it up.

"It'll help the Silent City folks, Granny," she had said. "Specially, if I smile a lot at 'em."

She flung open the door and went in, closing it behind her. In one corner of the kitchen, an old woman, so old that no squatter could remember her other than aged, sat near the stove. About her shoulders was a shawl, and its edges were held together with clawlike fingers.

Munching on a bit of hay at the wood-box was a lean goat, an old friend of Polly Hopkins. Long ago she had found him, lost in the wilderness of the Storm country, and had brought him to the Silent City.

The shanty consisted of three rooms. Back of the kitchen Daddy Hopkins slept, and in the miserable coop-hole where Polly had once stored rubbish Granny Hope stretched out her weary bones at night. Polly's bed reared the kitchen wall, and the room had but a bench, two old chairs and a three-legged table to offer in rude hospitality.

"I wheedled a little milk from Oscar, Granny," said the girl. "Giddy, but he's gettin' stingy!"

She put down the pail, went to the stove and thrust a piece of wood into it.

"Wood's as wet as hell," she complained, almost as if she had spoken to herself.

The old woman stirred and lifted her withered lids.

"Hell ain't wet," she muttered. "It's dry an' warm—hot, I mean," and she shivered, drawing nearer the fire. "Tain't like this lakside."

Granny Hope had been in the Hopkins' shack since the first winter snow. Her own hut stood on a little point about a quarter of a mile away. In it she had lived alone ever since her husband had gone down in the Big Blow, a storm that was a tradition in the settlement, and which only the oldest inhabitants of the Silent City could remember.

"Old Marc had a beautiful angel with him."

The Fourth Estate.

The expression "the fourth estate," referring to newspaper workers, is credited to Edmund Burke, who is quoted in Thomas Carlyle's fifth lecture on "Heroes and Hero Worship" as saying, "There are three estates in parliament, but in the reporters' gallery yonder there sits a fourth estate, more important far than they all." This was in 1839. In this country where class distinctions are not made politically little ever is heard of the three estates—the nobility, the clergy and the people—but the term "fourth estate" is comparatively common.

Color Chosen for Backgrounds of Printed Designs Applied to Silks or Embroidered Figures.

All authorities are agreed that white is to make an excellent showing during the spring and summer seasons of 1922, as there is an international movement in that direction. At several of the spring racing meets in France, attended by the well-dressed women of many nations attired in the latest creation of Parisian dressmakers, white stood out prominently among the most smartly dressed, says Dry Goods Economist. And after the spring racing meets were finished and pleasure seekers left for the leading seashore resorts, it was noticeable that white was prominent in the expensive wardrobes of Parisian women.

Accordingly, we see white chosen for the backgrounds of printed designs applied to silks, or embroidered figures carried out in ornate fashion to light up white grounds.

This was expected. As every one knows, black overshadows all colors in popularity, both for dress and for millinery purposes. Naturally, black brought into prominence striking contrasts evidenced by the adoption of each of the primary colors of blue, red and yellow for combination with black.

But for a striking combination with black, white knocks all colors out in the first round. At the spring racing

DRESS SUIT LIKE MOTHER'S

This is a dress that will gladden the heart of a little girl. It is of jade green duvetyn over a slip of pearl gray crepe de chine. The tightly buttoned cuffs and the high collar are sure to make the little miss feel grown up.

Combination Affords One of the Simplest and Most Convenient Forms of Attire.

Since the war, dressing at winter resorts has been very much simplified. One changes once, or, at the most, twice during the day, not five times. The dress worn in the morning will go through the afternoon—right up to the dinner hour.

Sweaters and skirts are a uniform—the accordion plaited silk skirt with a frilled batiste blouse and a thin, contrasting sweater. The hat, the blouse, and the sweater are all of the simplest, depending upon a flash of color for their visibility rather than on any intricacy of line or elaboration of trimming. For the dress that starts the day, the French handmade linen in pastel or bright colors, made with a kimono blouse and straight skirt with lines of drawn work (the most inexpensive dress in the world) has always the greatest popularity. Then come dotted swisses and gingham, always made so simply that it is a marvel how each year's crop can look new and different.

For the afternoon come organdies and those delicate lingerie gowns with insets of lace and eyelet-work thrown into contrast by their black tulle foundations; gowns of crepe de chine and georgette crepe—always the same types of dresses, yet always with some little newness that dates them as this year's dresses look just a little old-fashioned. Last Palm Beach summer the sleeves were still short, the waistline normal, the belt inconspicuous, the hem straight, the neckline varied. This year almost every dress will have a pair of long, loose sleeves that will share with the girdle the responsibility of giving color and character to the gown; the short sleeve is, for the moment, passe—even for summer, even on evening gowns. One wears enormous sleeves or none at all.—HARRY'S BAZAR.

Poppy red is becoming a favorite color for modish blouses. Blouses may be worn over a silk, self-color or black.

meets in France there were several combinations of white and black, white predominating.

Next to black, bright colors, especially reds, afford excellent combinations with white, and the two other primaries of blue and yellow follow in the order of appropriateness for combination with white.

Similarly, the secondaries—that is, the combination of two primaries resulting in purple—green and orange—have been chosen by many designers for combination with white, especially in the form of motifs for the decoration of white grounds.

Ostrich Parasols.

Ostrich is used either to cover or elaborately trim some of the smartest parasols now being offered for Southern resorts wear, matching sets of hat and parasol.

PASTEL SHADES ARE REVIVED

Faded and China Blues and Coral and Jet Beads for Trimming Are Featured.

After an absence of several years, during which primary pigment colors of blue, red and yellow and derivations therefrom have held the center of the color stage, pastel colors are to be restored to favor, according to cables from the Dry Goods Economist's Paris office.

We are told that no less a French authority than Worth is pushing faded and China blues for both day and evening wear, and featuring coral and jet beads for trimmings. Instead of vivid colors, which is against all law and evidence, brilliant colors are staple for evening wear.

It is said that Lanvin is advocating pastel blues for both day and evening wear, and it is now common knowledge that Madeleine & Madeleine have adopted a dull greenish blue for all their spring models.

Jenny has adopted forget-me-not blue and raspberry reds for taffetas and for crepe de chine. And from other French sources comes reliable information that pastel colors are gaining ground.

Ample evidence that Paris is not alone in adopting pastel colors is presented in the action of leading dressmakers in New York, who have taken up military blues, that is gray blues, for cape suits, and, in addition, favor pastel colors for capes and dresses made of broadcloth.

That the adoption of pastel colors is not confined to dressmakers is seen in the taking up of such soft shades

as raspberry red for strapped slip by manufacturers of shoes wooling advance trade. Belge, too, is seen in strapped slippers, especially for women who spend the winter at fashionable resorts in the South.

Combine Plaid and Rough Weaves

Fabric and color combinations all important in the development children's clothes, both in dresses and wraps. A coat and cap outfit in straight line coat of plain color and a bright tartan plaid. The scarf fringed at the ends, and was enough to tie the entire outfit together, with ends swabbing either at or back. The whole outfit was turesque for a cold, snowy day.

Blouses for Spring.

Fine blouses and organdies chiefly offered in lingerie styles, these blouses tuck in at the waist. For these blouses one hears of An can demands for the flat Peter collar but most of the blouses have the standard roll collar. Pin tuck plays an important part, as a fastening; and there continues to use of color for tiny insets and cuff borders.

Early Spring Style.

The three-piece costume promise to be an early spring favorite, a run of these styles having been developed for Southern resort wear. One recently seen featured a frock with low waistline, topped by a square 30-inch long coat, which was fast at the neck only. The material was dahlia colored duvetyn, with touches of embroidery in black at the trimmings.

HELD FOR MURDER

Regarding the charges against J. J. Flannery, a wealthy Pittsburgher, who figured in an auto wreck in a $12,000 McFarland car on the Lincoln Highway near New Oxford last summer, and who is now under arrest in Pittsburgh on the charge of killing his wife, a news patch from Pittsburgh says: "The coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. J. J. Flannery, who was shot and killed in her home by her husband, Feb. 13, returned a verdict death due to wounds inflicted by Flannery and recommended he be held for the grand jury on a charge of murder."

"Flannery, who is 28, four years older than his wife, says he thought he saw the form of a man in his bedroom on the morning of the shooting and discharged his revolver at the supposed burglar. He immediately ascertained he had shot his wife and called the family physician, also notifying the police."

"Officials say the shooting was not accidental, but Mrs. Flannery and her husband had been on unfriendly terms for three years and the wife had consulted attorneys for the purpose of obtaining a legal separation, which Flannery resented."

"The district attorney, Harry C. Rowand, sought to establish Flannery shot his wife deliberately, presumably following a quarrel. The commonwealth tried to discredit Flannery's account he was sleeping when he heard a noise, which he believed to be a burglar."

"Testimony produced showed Flannery arrived on a street car within 200 feet of his home at 1:25 o'clock and that at 1:30 o'clock was talking over the telephone to Miss Inez Wallis, daughter of Dr. W. W. Wallis, who was summoned by Flannery after he had shot his wife."

"It was the commonwealth's aim to prove he could not get to his home, undress and be in bed in five minutes after alighting from the street car which had carried him from the Elks' club."

It has developed that the state has no intention to build a water bound macadam road from Franklinton to East Berlin. It is to be an "unbound" road, the engineer explaining that the first year about $3,000 a mile is required in the building of such a road, giving it the "once over"; the second year about the same amount; then comes the final treatment, a gradual building up of a road that when completed will have cost about seven or eight thousand dollars a mile. The road is treated with oil. After it is built the state maintains it. Maintenance of costs are higher than in a water bound road.

Men The Spring Suits Are Here At New Prices $25 to $35

The man who wants individuality in his hand-tailored clothes that really shows the most discriminating taste of the wearer; will be most enthusiastic over this first showing of Spring suits.

You'll find the coat lapels are a trifle longer and narrower. Buttons are spaced a little lower. The new sport styles show many interesting features in pockets, plaits and belts. We're ready to show you a most complete range in these styles.

Arrival Spring Furnishings

Madras Shirts

There's a refreshing blending of harmonious fast colors in these fine shirts that is indeed typical of Spring-time. They have the appearance of a more expensive shirt—and come in all the wanted patterns.

Silk Shirts

It has been many a season since you bought such high-grade silks at the above low price. Some are imported silks of exceptional merit. A varied assortment of the season's newest patterns await your early selection.

Fine Hats

A man is most particular about the selection of his hat, in fact it is a hard job for most men to select them; but the minute you try on one of our hats your hat worries are at an end. You will find our hats comfortable, stylish and above all low priced without sacrificing quality.

Tweed Caps

We have always taken great pride in the selection of our caps but we have many surprises for the critical cap buyer this Spring. The qualities are supreme and the styles surpass those of former seasons in attractiveness. We are showing four or five patterns in tweed mixtures that should be especially appealing to the young men.

Brogue Oxfords

You save $2 on these quality oxfords, most places ask $7 for such durable oxfords. In brogues, semi-brogues and plain patterns. In cordovan colors only. If you are especially hard to fit we suggest that you inspect these oxfords before deciding.

Silk Cravats

There are so many kinds of ties that it is hard to pick one now a days that comes up to your standard; but we make it easy for you to choose one here. The patterns are the latest made from wrinkle proof materials.
